VC Denies UN Envoy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Viet Cong denial that it had asked to send representatives to the United Nations was not unexpected. Secretary-General U Thant said Saturday. Both he and U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg insisted that the South Vietnamese Communists did make a request.

Heart Rejection Symptoms Over Doctors Assert

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Doctors reported Saturday they have succeeded in suppressing symptoms that Louis Washkansky's body may be rejecting his transplanted heart. They said the patient continues to gain.

The doctors said they had intensified drug treatments to combat what is believed the greatest threat to the historic heart transplant they performed a week ago—a rejection of the immunological danger, the body's natural tendency to reject foreign tissue placed in it.

The first tiny symptoms appeared Friday as Washkansky, 55, entered a weekend period physicians had warned would be crucial in their efforts to prevent rejection.

"If those signs had been maintained or were worse to day, we would have been worried," Dr. Marius Barnard said. "But he is better today than he was yesterday."

McNamara Not Attending NATO Minister Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who will leave the Pentagon next year, is passing up the NATO ministerial meeting in Brussels, it was announced Saturday.

The Pentagon said that McNamara "will remain in Washington at the request of the President to work on problems associated with the 1969 fiscal year defense program and financial plan."

Going in McNamara's place Monday will be Deputy Secretary of Defense Paul H. Nitze. Nitze is believed to be one of the men McNamara has discussed with President Johnson as a possible successor when McNamara leaves the top job in the defense establishment after seven years.

Rarely has McNamara failed to attend one of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization sessions, which are held in the Spring and in December. The State Department had announced Friday that McNamara would not attend.

Reds Lose 100 In Early Attack

SAIGON (AP) — A Viet Cong force estimated at 300 men tried to overrun a U.S. 1st Infantry division 50 miles north of Saigon early Sunday and was hurled back with heavy losses after breaking through the infantry's defense perimeter. U.S. officers said one Viet Cong jumped into a U.S. bunker and was strangled by an American sergeant.

American officers said there were 100 enemy dead on the battlefield after the mortar and ground attack. U.S. losses were put at one dead and 27 wounded. After a 35-minute mortar barrage, the Viet Cong drove under the cover of darkness toward the night defensive positions of a battalion of 1st Division troops and an artillery base supporting them and at one point, a U.S. officer said, the Viet Cong broke through the barbed wire into the perimeter of the American infantrymen.

The Viet Cong rushed in firing bazooka-type rockets, machine guns and small arms.

It was the second battalion-sized Viet Cong attack on U.S. 1st Infantry troops in three days. Two nights ago, the Viet Cong assaulted another battalion 30 miles to the north near the Bu Dop Special Forces camp and were beaten back, leaving 47 of their dead on the battlefield.

"The Viet Cong have been doing this constantly," said one officer of the 1st Division. "They're just committing suicide against well-dug in positions. None of us understands it."

South of Saigon in the swampy Mekong Delta, battered Viet Cong battalions formed into small units Saturday and struck back at South Vietnamese army troops who in a fierce battle the day before. Sharp night fighting was reported.

The U.S. Command said an additional 25 Viet Cong troops had been killed by South Vietnamese infantrymen and fighters in the second day of fighting Saturday along the banks of the Thac Lac Canal deep in the delta 100 miles southwest of Saigon. This raised the number of Viet Cong killed to 175.

The labor chieftains also discussed plans to concentrate political action in 90 congressional districts scattered across the nation which they consider swing seats that make the difference between a liberal or conservative Congress.

The federation spokesman declined to list the 90 House seats. "We are going to try to see to it that the 91st Congress has liberal, progressive members in those seats," he said.

The AFL-CIO leaders have been complaining that the conservative tinge of the current Congress threatens to starve out Johnson's antipoverty, education, housing and other social programs by cutting appropriations for them.

The AFL-CIO spokesman said the labor movement also has a big stake in preserving many of its liberal friends in the Senate who will be up for re-election next year.

The 1968 political situation was the only topic at a meeting of the AFL-CIO's general board composed of Meany, 28 other members of the federation's policymaking executive committee, heads of its six major departments and a top officer from each of the 129 unions in the federation.

Lynda, Charles Are Wed In Story Book Splendor

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson married Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb Saturday in the beauty of the White House a gleam with the lights and garlands and the spirit of the Christmas season.

The elder daughter of the President and the young man who will be in Vietnam in a few weeks exchanged wedding bands. "I wills" and murmured "I love you" in the splendor of the East Room.

Ex-beau George Hamilton looked on from the throne of elbow-to-elbow guests.

With a trace of trembling emotion in his voice, President Johnson replied when the Rev. Canon Gerald N. McAllister asked who gave this woman in marriage. Johnson's reply: "Her mother and I."

The mother wedding from the moment the groomsmen started down the great staircase until the minister was the last to leave the East Room took 20 minutes, but it was only six minutes for the religious ceremony from the "dearly beloved," beginning until the minister declared "with this ring I thee wed."

The White House officially put the time of the wedding at 4:16 p.m. EST.

Lynda in the traditional long, white gown of a bride and Robb in his dress blue uniform stood before a white altar on a low platform in the center of the rear wall of the East Room. The altar was wreathed in greenery.

To Take Action On Draft Violators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department and Selective Service director Lewis B. Hershey announced Saturday a new crackdown on draft violators but said draft registrants involved in "lawful protest activities" need not fear priority callups.

Hershey and Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said a special unit was being created in the Justice Department to coordinate prompt prosecution of violations of Selective Service laws and related statutes.

Their statement warned local draft officials that "lawful protest activities" cannot be used as a reason for expediting the callup of anti war demonstrators.

Hershey had suggested to local boards in a memorandum Oct. 26 that deferments might be lifted from persons engaged in illegal interference with the draft or military recruiting.

1. Knowingly counseling, aiding or abetting others to refuse to register or serve or to "interfere by force or violence or otherwise with the administration of the system."

2. Interfering with the armed forces "for obstruction of recruiting and enlistment."

The statement cited as examples of violations that would affect a registrant's status the giving of false information, failure to appear for examination or failure to have a draft card.

Failure to step forward for induction, the statement stressed, is subject to prosecution by the Justice Department under procedures "firmly established and approved by the courts."

In discussing lawful protests, Clark and Hershey said they do not expect draft registrants to subjected callup "or any other special administrative action by the Selective Service system."

The statement said activities which violate federal law will be dealt with under the procedures outlined, but added, "The lawful exercise of rights of free expression and peaceful assembly have incurred and will incur no penalty or other adverse action."

Candles gleamed from two very small holders.

Back of the altar a delicate gold cross was centered on a background of green fir studded with tiny white electric candles.

It was a picture book wedding. It tugged hard at emotions. And it brought tears to Lynda's eyes as she stepped up to the altar and to those of her sister, Luci Johnson Nugent, the matron of honor.

There were subdued but audible answers of "I will" when the officiating cleric asked Charles and Lynda in turn whether they would have the other for their wedded spouse in the holy state of matrimony—whether they would love, comfort and honor one another, forsake all others, "so long as ye both shall live."

They looked directly into each other's eyes.

And just before the ceremony ended, Robb whispered toward his bride and Lynda "I love you" in words that could be seen rather than heard. Lynda's hand trembled slightly when Charles put a diamond-encrusted gold band on the third finger of her left hand. But there was no fumbling in the double ring ceremony.

After the benediction, Robb kissed Mrs. Robb on the cheek and said, "I love you." And Lynda, her deep dimples showing, whispered back, "I love you."

The ceremony over, husband and wife turned away from the altar, walked down an aisle formed by white ribbons and brass stanchions to the center doorway of the East Room and smiling marched arm in arm beneath an archway of snow.

He said Mrs. Johnson would spend the night in Washington. Johnson's little white pet mongrel dog, Yuki, insisted on getting underfoot at the picture taking. He was wearing a red coat emblazoned with "congratulations."

Mrs. Johnson told him he wasn't invited to be in the pictures and asked that he be taken away.

Attending the wedding were friends and relatives and distinguished guests, from the Johnson City, Tex., Saturday night and stay until Tuesday or Wednesday. He said he was not taking some work along and could do as much in two days.

After he got back upstairs, President Johnson told reporters he was very tired and was flying to the LBJ ranch near Johnson City, Tex., Saturday night and stay until Tuesday or Wednesday. He said he was not taking some work along and could do as much in two days.

Urge Employment For Rural Poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential advisory commission takes issue with some current federal programs and urges full employment for the rural poor—even if the government has to provide the jobs to end what the panel calls a "poor of the nation above the poverty line, the group says that in 1964 the tab would have been about $12.5 billion—or a 2.6 percent of the personal income of all Americans."

"To close the income gap for the rural poor alone," it says, "would require nearly $5 billion."

The whole tenor of the 160-page printed document is that the price would be well worth it. Breathitt's commission is pointedly critical of federal programs to aid rural America, calling them "woefully out of date." Some were called "relics from an earlier era."

It holds that the 1967 city riots were due in considerable part, to rural poverty.

Bomb Could Double Nation's Gas Supply

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP) — A thermobaric nuclear peace bomb is set to explode 4,240 feet underground Sunday in the first test of a concept that could double the nation's natural gas reserves.

The device, with the power of 12.5 million quarts of nitroglycerin, is to be detonated at 1 p.m. EST, in a secluded area of the Carson National Forest. The site is 55 miles east of Farmington and about 200 miles from where the world's first atomic explosion occurred near Alamogordo in July 1945.

There will be little similarity between Sunday's Project Gasbuggy test and the World War II atomic weapons program.

Gasbuggy, the first use of nuclear explosive for industrial purposes, has a peaceful objective—to determine if it can free natural gas from low permeability, or tight, rock formations where gas cannot be obtained at a profit by conventional means.

The Atomic Energy Commission, a Gasbuggy sponsor, estimated there are enough so-called light formations in Wyoming, New Mexico, Utah and Colorado that nuclear stimulation could add about 300 trillion cubic feet of natural gas to the nation's reserves, and thus double them.

Other sponsors of the $4.7 million project are El Paso Natural Gas Co. and the U.S. Bureau of Mines. El Paso, which paid $1.8 million of the cost, says most of the gas from the test hole probably will be used for evaluation and not sold commercially.

The Gasbuggy hole was being capped Saturday with a sealing

Three Memorial Services Honor Negro Astronaut

EDWARDS (AP) — Memorial services will be conducted at Chicago and at this Air Force base where Maj. Robert H. Lawrence Jr., America's first Negro astronaut, was killed Friday.

Lawrence, 31, died in the crash of an F104 Starfighter jet as it landed after a routine training flight.

An Air Force spokesman said a memorial service for Lawrence would be held Monday night at a Chicago funeral home followed Tuesday by a similar service at the First Unitarian Church on the campus of University of Chicago.

A third memorial service will be conducted late Tuesday at the Edwards AFB chapel.

Funeral plans for Maj. Lawrence were incomplete. His widow, Barbara, and 8-year-old son Tracy live at the base.

Ethical Decisions In Medical Gains

The first successful transplant of a human heart, in Cape Town, South Africa, is a historic medical triumph.

Surgeons have been perfecting the techniques of the operation for years, using animals. Its achievement with humans was only a matter of time. It will be repeated in other hospitals.

Whole-heart transplantation may remain a rarity, however, because of work that is going forward in the field of artificial hearts. Here, too, it is probably only a matter of time before a completely artificial heart can be successfully placed in a human body—though most research today is aimed at the repair of the existing heart by replacing parts of it, such as worn-out blood vessels and valves.

But the news from Cape Town lends new drama to a matter that is already of concern to many people, in and out of medicine. It seems certain that the transplantation of other tissues, like the kidneys and liver, will have become a commonplace long before artificial duplicates of these complex organs are perfected.

This prospect raises all sorts of legal and moral questions. It involves the most fundamental question of all: When does life end?

The South African doctors answered that question on the basis of encephalographic readings of the fatally injured woman whose heart was used in the operation. When her brain's electrical activity ceased, she was declared dead.

Conceivably, in some cases in the future, doctors may face the difficult task of weighing the ethical imperative of expending every effort to maintain life in a prospective organ donor against the urgent need of a prospective donee in the next room.

Scientific progress does not occur in a moral vacuum. We stand in awe at accomplishments of medicine today, and feel not a little trepidation about those it promises for the future.

Nobody (?) Wants Involvement

It is generally believed that today's innocent bystander often prefers to be just that, rather than become involved in whatever it is that he's innocently standing by. Even if someone urgently needs his help.

And there's a frustrated bank bandit in Columbia, S. C., who must be fervently wishing that someone had told the Seawell brothers of Columbia how bystanders are supposed to act.

This would-be robber stepped up to the drive-in window of the North Main Street branch of the First National Bank of South Carolina in Columbia. He wore a paper sack over his head and held his hand in his pocket.

"I have a gun in my hand," he told Mrs. Rose Morrison, the teller. "Hand over all the money you have."

That's when his trouble began.

Mrs. Morrison looked at him calmly. "Are you kidding?" she said, and walked away.

She notified the bank manager, and he called the police.

Simultaneously, the Seawell brothers—Jack and Carroll—happened to glance at the bank from the restaurant they operate next door. They saw the man with the paper sack over his head, and got the message. And it never occurred to them to stay uninvolved.

They rushed over, grabbed the robber, paper sack and all, ignored his threats to shoot them, subdued him and held on to him until the police arrived.

It turned out he didn't have a gun after all. He'd been bluffing.

But the Seawell brothers hadn't been bluffing. And neither had the lady teller when she kept her cool.

Nobody wants to get involved these days? Nobody wants to help someone in trouble?

Try to tell that to the bank bandit with the paper sack over his head—the guy left holding the bag!

In The Belt-Tightening Act Rep. Everett Is The Champ

NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Foreign aid got the ax and the poverty program suffered a budgetary setback, but the most drastic bit of per capita belt-tightening in the 90th Congress came at the waistline of Rep.
Robert A. Everett, D-Tenn.

The congressman lost 93 pounds.
For 26 days ending late in November he conducted his legislative affairs from Bethesda Naval Hospital, where he was systematically pared from 363 pounds to 270, the second trip for the 52-year-old congressman in recent years. In a previous bout he lost 100 pounds. Then ... inflation set in.

This year he's off to a good start, having crossed the Thanksgiving hurdle by losing three more pounds, a proud monument to deficit spending.
Clothes are no problem. The congressman holds a "thin" set in reserve.
"He never throws anything away," said a loyal aide. "He just keeps all sizes and when he puts on weight he gets out the big ones again."

"He's the same way about belt-tightening in Congress, you know. He's a conservative Democrat, believes in tightening up finances."

Talk about a fluid economy...

SO YOU THINK a single appointment to a federal board doesn't have much effect on the nation.

So you think whenever an opening comes up the President just thumbs through his list of friends and benefactors and comes up with an appointee.

Then consider the dilemma posed to the President when John Reilly resigned his membership on the Federal Trade
the FTC evenly split between those who favor hard-line protection for the consumer and those who are sympathetic with industry.

In the case of the Reilly vacancy, you, as a smoker, stood to be affected.

The commission, for purposes of testing the amount of tar and nicotine in cigarettes, for example, currently has them
"smoked" down to a 23 mm butt. The tobacco industry wants them "smoked" down to only 30 mm, and if you think that's just a silly millimeter or so longer, listen to the arguments of health experts.

The longer butt, they say, if allowed in tests would show a lot less tar and nicotine, and make cigarettes appear to be safer. Which left the decision more or less up to the President, depending on whether he appointed a short-butt man or a long-butt-er.

Or at least one with hindsight.

Political Decisions In War Beyond Scope Of Military

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—As Robert McNamara prepares to leave the Pentagon, a great deal of misinformation is being spread about the attitudes of this country's senior military officers.

It is easy to picture men in uniform as smoke-snorting warmongers anxious to charge here and there.

Actually, the present top hierarchy in the Pentagon is heavily laced with very cautious men extremely leery about getting into any war and intensely worried about the United States becoming militarily involved too deeply in any overseas area.

Among Pentagon military men there are mixed feelings about the purely military worth of our sustained bombings of North Vietnam. Basically, the bombing was instituted for political - psychological reasons.
That is, the purpose was psychological, to wear down Ho's will to carry on the war. It was a White House, not a military, decision.

The recent McNamara-Joint Chiefs of Staff arguments over bombing were less arguments for or against "all-out" bombing than arguments over whether this type of target or that was more important. Sometimes, in fact, the targets for which some military men argued would have "escalated" the war less than the targets which McNamara and the President chose.

In any event, in a war it is the duty of a military man to present what to him are militarily the most effective targets. It is not within his competence to decide on the political considerations. He bows, not in disagreement; rather, he bows because he is concerned with only a part of the problem.

Take an example in World War II. When Eisenhower's forces were advancing in Europe, he sent messages to Washington stating that militarily it would be wise for U.S. and West European forces to advance as quickly as possible to Berlin, but that there might be political reasons for holding our forces back (and allowing the Russians to move in first). He waited for the President's word.
Roosevelt made his decision to hold the U.S. forces back for political reasons. The overrul-ing of Eisenhower's military suggestion did not indicate he was more or less a hawk than Roosevelt.

Actually, in the Pentagon there was considerable feeling among some military men against going into the Vietnam war at all because they believed it would be inconclusive and inflationary. President Kennedy's political decision was that it would be effective.

The high-ranking Pentagon military men whose views this reporter knows are overwhelmingly against a war with Red China and against invading North Vietnam. They believe the war must be won in the south.

Most of these top military men known to this reporter now believe that while military action is necessary in South Vietnam to achieve the President's purpose, in the end the war will be won by the pacification projects which help to build democratic government, schools, medical stations and agriculture in the hamlets.

Ann Landers:

Lets Curls Grow Long to Teach Son a Lesson

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband became disgusted with the way our 16-year-old son Rod had been wearing his hair. The boy liked it full on the sides and a lot longer than my husband thought was necessary.

After repeated suggestions that Rod get a haircut (all ignored) my husband decided to teach his son a lesson by letting his own hair grow long so the boy could see what it looks like.
(My husband's hair is very curly, and after four weeks without a haircut he looked as if he was wearing a fright wig.)

Next Monday is parents night at the high school. This morning Rod asked his dad to please get a haircut before he showed up at school. His dad replied, "My hair doesn't look any worse than yours, but I'll get a haircut tomorrow if you will."

Rod said he wouldn't get a short haircut but he'd let the barber trim off "a couple of inches."

Tonight at the dinner table I sat with two very attractive, well-groomed gentlemen. I thought I'd let you know how the hair problem was solved in at least one family.—RE-LIEVED

Dear Relieved: The solution took a lot of courage. Not every man would or could do it. (I'll bet your husband is self-employed.
Most bosses would not put up with long curls on a man who is trying to teach his son a lesson.)

Dear Ann Landers: I am 30, attractive, unmarried, successful in business, and have turned down some promising young men who wanted to marry me.
Reason: I'm too fussy. In retrospect I regret my past mistakes but there's no point in crying about that now.

The present crisis is something I need help with. A bachelor, age 40, has been quite attentive for five months. Our vacations fell at exactly the same time. He has asked me to take try drive, with stops wherever we felt like it, no set itinerary.

Of course everything would be strictly on the up and up—separate hotel and motel accommodations and no hanky panky.

At first he mentioned it as a joke and then he became serious. I am beginning to think it's a good idea. I would not sneak out of town with him. I'd tell everyone and be perfectly open and above board. What do you think it would do to my reputation? I need your advice.—STILL MULLING

Dear Still: The trip you have in mind would muddy your reputation without a doubt. While you may mean business about the brother-sister act, nobody would believe it, and frankly, your chances for pulling it off are mighty slim. You will find that for every immobile object, there's an irresistible force.

An old fashioned custom called "marriage" would make the trip completely respectable. I wonder why he hasn't thought of it.

Dear Ann Landers: No earth-shaking problem, this one, but I'd like to help a sweet kid who came to work in this office three weeks ago. She's from a small town and probably doesn't know any better. Every day she comes to work dressed as if she's going to a party. She wears beaded dresses, lace, feathers and fur, and I suspect she has shortened someone's cast-off evening gowns. Should I tell her at the risk of hurting her feelings? —BIG Q

Dear Big: Offer to shop with her for some office-type clothes.
The "sweet kid" obviously needs a friend. Be one.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems.

Now is the time to try and recall whether your behavior at last year's office yule party will permit you to attend this year's shenanigans.

Our thirsty chum is the first person in the neighborhood to develop a Christmas list.

Most of the gals we know are hard at work getting their Christmas male early.

No, Gwendolyn, "mistletoe" isn't something a fellow gets if he drops a rocket on his foot.

Impossible To Block Out Soviet All-Out Missile Attack: McNamara

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara remains convinced it is technologically impossible at this point to build a defense which could effectively blunt an all-out Soviet missile attack on cities in the United States.

He includes an important assumption in this belief: That "the Soviets would react to our defense as we are to theirs," by turning out more and better of offensive missiles.

In an interview with The Associated Press, the Pentagon chief—soon to relinquish the job to become president of the World Bank—stressed that the nation's planned $5 billion anti-missile shield will be geared against a possible Communist Chinese attack of the early 1970s.

The Soviets, he believes, should understand this and not feel compelled to field more offensive missiles beyond an apparently accelerated ICBM program already under way.

"We've stated publicly that our Sentinel defense is not aimed at the Soviets," McNamara said, "and the design of the system is such that anyone experienced in strategic forces will understand it is oriented to Communist China."

The defense secretary's comment came in one of several AP interviews with top Pentagon officials that reflected deep divisions of thought about how extensive a missile defense the nation should attempt to create and—technological problems aside—whether antimissile developments are even advisable at a time when strategic weapons forces are escalating in size and deadlines.

McNamara served notice in his September announcement that he would resist any "mad momentum" toward expansion of his authorized "thin" system.

This opposition is based on the simple premise that any defense—thick or thin—can be out-gunned by a technologically advanced enemy capable of firing more warheads, or decoys, than the United States has antimissiles to intercept them.

In marked contrast are military proposals, promoted mainly by Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that the $5 billion general coverage system be broadened into a $20 billion shield which would include specific protection for 50 American cities.

"To me the idea of building a defense against the Chinese threat which doesn't yet exist, while ignoring an existing Soviet missile threat, just isn't a viable concept," one ranking military officer said.

But even within the Joint Chiefs of Staff there are varying degrees of enthusiasm behind the unanimous conclusion that an antimissile defense is vital to the nation's security.

Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. John P. McConnell, for example, contends a thin deployment "will do everything that we can anticipate a reasonable missile defense can do"—but not cope with full-scale attacks.

Prevailing winds of attitude in the Pentagon are reflected in comments from two figures.

An Air Force civilian who was a key man in antimissile research, which has gobbled up $3 billion since 1955, says flatly:

"The thick antiballistic missile (ABM) defense will not be the productive way to go."

Lt. Gen. Austin W. Betts, head of the Army's antimissile research efforts, says, "I think we'll always be chintzy about missile defense."

McNamara said the pace of Chinese progress toward a nuclear missile force—and not election year pressures—was the governing factor in the administration's September decision to build the Sentinel defense, formerly called Nike X.

Some critics have called it the "anti-Republican missile," in view of the fact McNamara announced the deployment decision only eight months after he testified in Congress no decision had to be made this year.

During a hearing before the Senate Defense Appropriations Subcommittee last January, McNamara told Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., the question of defending against Chinese missiles "is still open and deserving of further discussion in subsequent years as events unfold. I say 'subsequent years' because the lead time for them to deploy their offense is greater than our lead time to deploy a defense, and hence the decision to deploy for this purpose need not be made this year."

The secretary makes it clear that deployment of this system to protect the American population against a Chinese attack would not be influenced by any arms limitation discussions with the Soviet Union.

Within the Pentagon, the ABM's price tag and marvelous technological capabilities do not overshadow the fact it is merely another factor—if new—in the world of strategic calculations.

Would a $40 billion, thick anti-missile defense for American cities be viewed by the Soviets as a serious erosion of their second strike, or retaliatory, capability—forcing them to produce more, advanced ICBM's?

Would a thin defense at one-eighth the cost allay fears that an atomic age China could around 1972 hold an unprotected United States at bay with missiles while waging conventional war on her neighbors?

Would NATO allies view the ABM as evidence the United States is slipping into a "fortress America" posture with less sensitivity to their defense needs?

If a skinny defense is here, can a fat, resource-devouring one be far behind?

Civilian strategists chose this approach after considering costs, technology and international repercussions: 1. Build some long-range antimissiles (Spartan) which could intercept a flight of, say, 15 or 20 Chinese missiles in space, thereby protecting the entire country against the Chinese for the next few years. 2. Retain the option of adding some point-defending, shorter range interceptors (Sprint) to shield Minuteman missile sites against improved accuracy Soviet weapons—thereby increasing the number of Minutemen which could survive any Soviet first strike and, in effect, expanding the offensive force.

No city, under the authorized plan, would get custom-made protection of Sprint.

Thus, the Russians aren't provoked, because their ability to destroy American cities in retaliation for a U.S. attack isn't challenged (from the Soviet viewpoint this keeps the United States "deterred"); the Chinese are dissuaded against attempting nuclear blackmail because their rudimentary missiles could be stopped in flight and they would be subject to retaliation; Republican criticism about the administration allowing the country to go undefended is at least partially answered, and Americans, theoretically, can feel secure.

McNamara dismisses as "absolutely false" the view advanced in Congress that deployment of Sentinel will disrupt NATO or force NATO allies, leery of U.S. willingness to protect them, into positions of "defensive neutrality."

McNamara said he discussed the antimissile situation with NATO defense ministers in Ankara, Turkey, and found it "perfectly apparent that our decision won't loosen ties in NATO or be a cause for concern in the NATO councils."

Today the Pentagon is moving ahead with preliminary work toward getting Sentinel combat-ready within five years.

Survey teams for the next few months will be fanning out across the nation looking for 200- to 300-acre sites in 10 areas, tentatively chosen as possible locations for long-reaching Spartan batteries. These include Albany, Ga.; Chicago, Dallas, Grand Forks AFB, N.D.; New York City; Oahu, Hawaii; Salt Lake City; Seattle; Boston, and Detroit.

The 400-mile range Spartan is equipped with a one-megaton warhead which can kill incoming warheads over miles-wide areas outside the atmosphere with a deadly emission of X-rays and other high energy particles.

The short-arm of the Sentinel system is the one-mile-per-second Sprint, so fast it can await firing until the atmosphere begins filtering decoys from

BANKER SPEAKS TO ROODHOUSE C. OF C. MEMBERS

ROODHOUSE — Russell Meece, president of the Roodhouse National Bank and a member of the Rotary Club, spoke before the club Wednesday night on the subject, "Industrial Development."

Presiding over the meeting was vice president Jerry Luber in the absence of the president, Henry Van Tuyle.

kins, Mayor Ray Prather, Ralph Hamm. The dinner was served by Mrs. Wilmoth Todd and Mrs. Edna Peterson.

The Roodhouse Chamber of Commerce Merchants Committee is urging all merchants and their employees to park off the main streets during the next few weeks when people are Christmas shopping. The cooperation of all will be appreciated. This parking will enable shoppers to find adequate parking places during this busy season.

Charges Dismissed Against Two Women, Raise Lowe's Bond

Three of four Jacksonville young people who were arrested early Tuesday in Springfield appeared Friday morning in Sangamon County Circuit Court.

Charges were dismissed against two women and a young man was bound over to the next session of the Sangamon county grand jury on four charges.

Magistrate Lawrence Swinger dismissed the original charges against Mrs. Ella Thomas, 24, of 214 1/2 West Morgan, and 20-year-old Linda Chaudoin of 339 South Main. Swinger ruled that the prosecution failed to present sufficient evidence to bind the two over to the grand jury.

Raise Bond To $20,000

Ira Richard Lowe, Jr., 19, of 231 West Chambers also appeared Friday. He was bound over to the January session of the grand jury on charges of armed robbery, attempted armed robbery, attempted murder and aggravated assault. Lowe's bond was increased from $10,000 to $20,000 and he was returned to the Sangamon county jail.

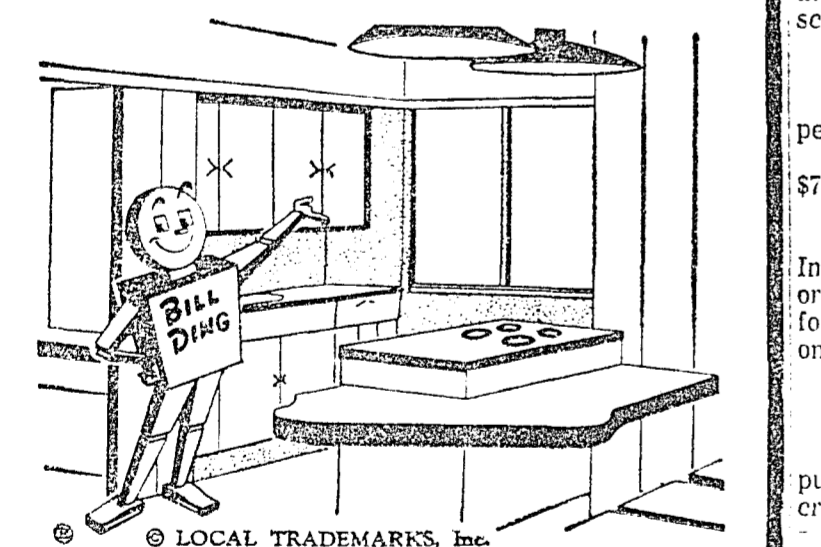

The fourth person apprehended was 16-year-old Donald Lovekamp of Rural Route 5. He did not appear Friday but is scheduled to appear in Springfield.

A three-year-old child was with the four young people when arrested Tuesday morning. The child reportedly belonged to Linda Chaudoin and was returned to Jacksonville in custody of grandparents.

New Berlin Post Asks Help For Holiday Project

NEW BERLIN — All individuals and organized civic groups of Community Unit School District 16 are urged to participate in the "Operation Christmas Baskets" project, sponsored by the Auxiliary of West Sangamon American Legion Post 743, New Berlin.

The baskets will contain food, toys and clothing and will be distributed to young and elderly of the school district area, who would not otherwise have a bountiful Christmas. Twenty-one were distributed last year.

Containers for cash donations are in all business places in New Berlin, and in several at Loami. Boxes for canned goods are at the Shell and Standard Stations in New Berlin, and at the West Sangamon Bowl in Loami. Usable toys and good clothing for families may be brought to the Treasure Island Cafe or the Legion Home, in New Berlin.

Cookies
Among projects planned at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Auxiliary of West Sangamon American Legion Post 743, was the "Operation Christmas Baskets" project sponsored by the group. Other business included plans to send cookies to a ward at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home in Quincy, with all members to bring their cookies to the president either Dec. 16 or 17.

The group will assist the Legion Post in preparing and serving a Meatball and Spaghetti Supper to the public on Dec. 16. A monetary gift of $10 for spending money was voted to be sent to the 12 year old girl in the Legion Children's Home. Normal, sponsored by the group. She will also receive a Christmas gift.

Mrs. Doris Barker was named to purchase new drapes for one room of the Legion Home, before the Dec. 16 supper.

Coupon chairman, Mrs. Maxine Pyle urged all members to save their coupons for her.

President Imogene Garrison stated candy bars will be tied by ribbons to Christmas cards as favors for the veterans at the Jacksonville State Hospital. Many gifts were brought by members for these men, and will be distributed before Christmas.

Bar Association Names Bradney To State Post

Stanton L. Ehrlich, Chicago, president of the Illinois State Bar Association, recently announced the appointment of Committee and Section personnel of the Association for the 1967-68 fiscal year.

Jacksonville attorney Robert E. Bradney has been appointed Secretary of the Section on Civil Practice and Procedure. Mr. Bradney is a member of the Jacksonville law firm of Foreman, Rammelkamp, Bradney and Hall and served as a member of the Council of the Section during the 1966-67 fiscal year.

Magistrate Court Fines

Magistrate Paul Fenstermaker and Deputy Circuit Clerk Mrs. Mabel Brown presided over a number of traffic cases last week and assessed fines after the defendants entered pleas of guilty to the charges.

Cases handled by the magistrate were: Bradley D. Wankel, Route 4, too fast for conditions, $15; Paula Schutz, Hillview, failed to yield, $20; James V. Still, Mt. Sterling, speeding, $28; Robert D. Aman, Kewanee, failed to reduce speed, $10; Ruth Bauser, Route 3, failed to transfer plates, $20; Carole Crain, 523 West College, failed to yield, $20.

Violations handled by the clerk were: David L. Fields, 330 W. Douglas, expired safety test, $10; Diane L. Jennings, Palmyra, disobeyed stop sign, $10; Robert D. Hamm, 130 Prospect, speeding, $8; Dennis K. Gregory, Bluffs, failure to do duty when striking an unattended vehicle, $10; Delinda D. Welch, 128 East Vandalia, speeding, $7; Wayne D. Molten, Virden, no valid safety test, $10; Bessie Long, 841 W. Morton, disobeyed stop sign, $10; Harry E. Angelo, Route 2, improper lane usage, $10.

All fines listed above were subject to the addition of five dollars court costs.

Robert E. Feil Is Promoted

FT. BENNING, Georgia (AHTNC) — Robert E. Feil, 20, son of Mrs. Betty Henry of route one Rockport, Illinois, and Robert R. Feil of Keokuk, Iowa, and husband of Mrs. Connie Feil of Pleasant Hill, was promoted November 25 to Army Specialist five at Ft. Benning, Ga. where he is assigned as a combat demolition specialist in Company D of the 197th Infantry Brigade's 91st Engineer Battalion.

Circuit Judge Richard Mills of Virginia has been named Chairman of the Section on Criminal Law. He was a member of the Council of the Section during the past fiscal year.

Springfield attorney M. Brooks (Max) Byus, formerly of Jacksonville, was reappointed as a member of the Council of the Section on Administrative Law, a position he held during the past fiscal year. Mr. Byus is a member of the staff of the Attorney General of Illinois.

It is the function of the sections to keep abreast of particular phases of the law, recommend amendment of any defective laws, the repeal of undesirable or unnecessary laws, and aid in the continuing education of lawyers. Twenty-four of the 26 sections publish newsletters for the benefit of the members of the section.

EXPORTS OF U. S. FARM PRODUCTS DECLINE

Only $4.6 billion worth of farm products have been shipped abroad since Jan. 1, 1967. This is 6% less than for the same period a year ago. This year's total is almost certain to fall below the $6.9 billion exported last year. The lag comes after several years of increase.

Most of the decline is accounted for by sharp drops in the exports of feed grains and wheat although dairy products, hides, poultry and vegetables have also declined. Decreases have been partially offset by higher foreign sales of cotton, rice, soybeans and tobacco.

Exports for the balance of the year and the first half of 1968 may show little change from 1966 levels but lower commodity prices should improve the competitive position of U. S. exports especially for grains and soybeans.

MONEY CLIPS

by Mort Reed

Coin Designing is a Serious Business

Webster defines a coin as "a piece of metal stamped by government authority for use as money. A kind of recompense."

Technically, he is correct but this restricts a coin to being just an instrument of trade, and it is really more than that. It could be more accurately described as a historical document that records for all times the aspirations and political motivations of a nation.

True, a coin is a piece of metal and in most cases a metal of intrinsic value, but in this case the coin itself is just a vehicle. The design is the authority of the issuing country, as is evidenced by our present sandwich quarters and dimes. These pieces contain an alloy of far less value than the value inscribed on the reverse but they have the same purchasing power as the silver coins. This is because the facts, recorded by a long history of dependable coinage, show that we are a nation that keeps a promise.

The design on a coin is a picture story in the oldest universal language known to man — heraldic art. In heraldic art, liberty, olive branches, laurel, stars, the shield and arrows are all abstract symbols of freedom dating back to the early Greek and Roman coins and each had the same interpretation then that they have now.

When a new nation decided to issue its own national currency, it was careful to select the abstract symbol that best portrayed its promise for the future. Usually this promise was one that would command the immediate respect of the world family of nations, thereby gaining their co-operation from the start.

So it was with the United States when in 1792 it began producing its own coinage. Our promise was liberty. The colonies had aspired to it. The Revolutionary war had committed us to it and the rest of the world was determined to hold us to it.

Since the goddess of liberty was the only abstract symbol we could use on our currency, the Congress specified in the Coinage Act of 1792 that the obverse of all coins bear "an impression emblematic of liberty with an inscription of the word Liberty and the year of the coinage. The reverse of all gold and silver coins must include the figure or representation of an eagle with the inscription 'United States of America.'"

Subsequent coinage acts added the two mottos, "E Pluribus Unum" and "In God We Trust," along with the denomination. The use of the eagle was made optional on denominations of 10 cents or less.

In 1865 we acquired our first specific symbol in Abraham Lincoln, but it wasn't until he had become a tradition nearly a half century later, that his likeness was placed on a coin. Washington, Jefferson and Franklin existed prior to Lincoln but they were part of the original promise and their portraits would have been meaningless until someone else had put their promise to the test — and won.

Today, 175 years after a promise was made, the portraits on our coinage document the fact that it was kept.

Father McKenzie, 57, a white-haired, philosophical Jesuit, commented in a telephone interview that the archbishop "may not have meant for his letter to be an open letter. It doesn't happen this way very often."

The archbishop's 12-page letter, dated last Oct. 27, was mailed to priests in his archdiocese, commenting on a study paper on authority and obedience drawn up by the San Antonio priests' senate, and quoting extensively from Father McKenzie.

Father McKenzie, presently a professor of theology at the University of Notre Dame, only last month received the 1967 Cardinal Spellman Award of the Catholic Theological Society of America for outstanding work in the field.

Goodwill Tree Shopping Tips

What gifts are needed?

New, warm outer clothing, such as gloves, hats, scarves, sweaters, socks, shoes, boots, jackets, leotards, snowsuits.

For what age?

Toddler to 14 years old.

Should gifts be wrapped?

Gift wrapping is fine but not essential. It is important that you put a tag on the outside of the gift stating what it is, size, and whether for boy or girl.

Where should gifts be brought?

When?

Any time between now and Dec. 18.

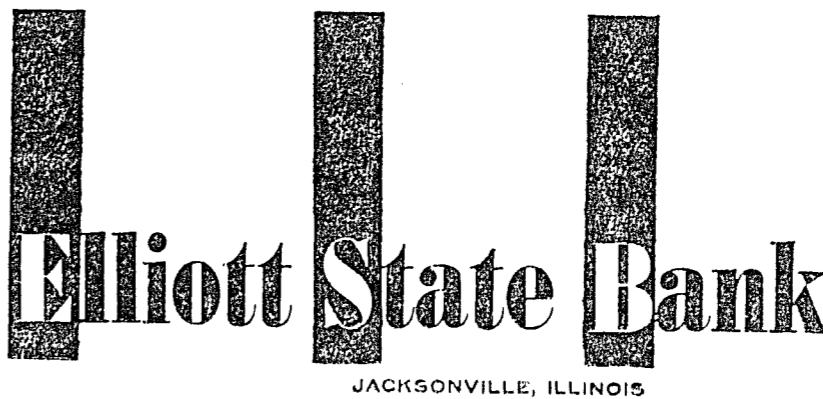

Is money alright?

Yes, if you are unable to shop, a committee of Elliott employees will buy needed gifts with your contribution.

How many gifts are needed?

At least 500 to assure no child is overlooked on Christmas morning.

enemy killed in the two-day battle to 390. The government troops reported killing 365 guerrillas in the fighting Friday, the biggest single-day battle in the delta this year. Government losses were put at 60 dead and 102 wounded.

The bodies of teen-age boys were found among the enemy dead along the muddy banks of the Thac Lac Canal, about 100 miles southwest of Saigon in the U-Minh Forest. Four boys, 13 to 17 years old, were captured. U.S. officials saw in this indication the Viet Cong, who have controlled most of the delta for years, were weakening and hurting for manpower.

The South Vietnamese forces, backed up by U.S. Army helicopter gunships, claimed 365 Viet Cong killed by the time fighting broke off Friday night, and the U.S. Command in Saigon called it one of the government army's greatest victories of the war. Only a handful of U.S. military advisers were with the ground troops.

The three enemy battalions broke up into smaller fighting groups after the battle and began hitting back Saturday morning. Fighting waned at midday but picked up again after nightfall.

Friday's action capped a week of successful allied operations in the delta. A combined U.S.-South Vietnamese Riverine Task Force boxed in a veteran Viet Cong unit of about 300 men along a canal 66 miles southwest of Saigon last Monday and killed 235 of the enemy troops. Four of them were women.

HOPPER & HAMM, INC.

It started out a week in which the allies throughout the nation initiated actions that resulted in more than 1,000 enemy troops killed. Troops of the U.S. Americal Division near Da Nang killed another 99 in a battle Saturday.

The passing of the monsoon rains from the south into the northern part of the country, signalled the start of heavy fighting in the lush delta.

South Vietnam's new premier, Nguyen Van Loc, traveled to coastal Tam Ky to present three Viet Cong defectors with awards equivalent to nearly $6,000 in South Vietnamese piasters—an amount that would take most rural South Vietnamese almost 25 years to earn. Annual per capita income is $250 in rural areas.

More than $3,000 of the money went to Dang Xuan Hung, who led government forces to a large enemy weapons cache. Pham Hanh who led troops to a cache of Viet Cong communications equipment got about $900. The third award of nearly $2,000 went to Loc To Tran Coi, who led his 38-man Viet Cong platoon to surrender last Wednesday.

CELL BIOLOGIST TO SPEAK FRIDAY ON IC CAMPUS

Dr. J. Morris Johnson, eminent cell biologist who is now a professor at Central College in Pella, Iowa, will give a one-hour presentation on the formation of ribonucleic acid at 7 p.m. Friday at Illinois College.

The public is invited, according to the Illinois College biology department.

Dr. Johnson holds the Ph.D. and M.S. from Oregon State University, and the bachelor's degree from College of Idaho. He has done post-doctoral research at the University of Chicago in the Swift Laboratory.

Report Peruvian Plane Crashed On Mountainside

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Peruvian airliner that crashed in the Andes Friday, killing 66 persons, had developed engine trouble in flight and returned to Lima for repairs three hours before it fell, an airline official said Saturday. Four Americans were among the 60 passengers aboard.

Eduardo Calderon, chief of Faucett Airlines operations in Lima, said a magnet failed in one engine of the DC6 shortly after takeoff at Lima at 8 a.m. Calderon said the pilot, Roque Saco Vertiz, brought the plane back and, after repairs, made his second takeoff at 9:20 a.m. on the flight of weekend holiday-makers to Tingo Maria in Huanuco, on the northeast rim of the Andes. The plane, carrying 44 passengers from Lima, hit 2,000 feet below the summit of 9,900-ft. Carpiash Peak and tumbled in a flaming crash 3,000 feet down the muddy, tangled slope. The time of the crash was about noon.

Police at Huanuco said 66 bodies were recovered under difficult conditions.

It was reported earlier that there were 67 aboard, including the crew of six, but the airline said an elderly woman, Irma de Arenas, booked to fly to Tingo Maria, got off at Huanuco to visit relatives rather than continue the flight.

The four-engine plane hit the side of 9,900-foot Carpiash Peak in the Andes about 150 miles west of Lima.

Rescue teams began bringing bodies down the mountain Saturday morning. The four Americans were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hauck, both 54, of Barborton, Ohio; Joseph Newman, 69, of 3064 Kishner Dr., Las Vegas, Nev.; and Evelyn Craig, 49, wife of a mining executive living in Peru.

The Weather Elsewhere

STATE

Rain, damp snow and fog — weather conditions that make for discomfort and displeasure — were found across most of Illinois Saturday.

Rain, mixed with wet snow, fell in the extreme northern section of the state. Meanwhile, light rain, drizzle and local fog covered the rest of the state.

Late afternoon temperatures ranged from the middle 30s in the northwest to the middle 50s in the extreme south.

Some late afternoon temperatures were Chicago and Peoria 38, Champaign 42, Moline 37, Quincy and Springfield 41, Rockford 34 and Vandalia 44.

Namara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler would head the U.S. delegation to the Brussels meeting next week.

Meanwhile, sources who have been close to Cyrus R. Vance said they now consider him practically out as a prospect for McNamara's replacement as Secretary of Defense.

Vance, former Deputy Secretary of Defense, has been considered a prime prospect both because of his long association with Johnson dating back a decade, because he has been used by Johnson in a number of troubleshooting missions, including the recent Cyprus crisis, and because he had worked for years with McNamara in running the Pentagon.

Rural Poor

"A high proportion of the people crowded into city slums today came there from rural slums," the commission says.

However, the commission says that "contrary to a common misconception, whites outnumber nonwhites among the rural poor by a wide margin."

It did say that in the South and on Indian reservations an extremely high proportion of Negroes and Indians can only be described as destitute.

In a number of passages, the commission complains in effect that poor folks in the city have a more effective lobby in Washington than their cousins in the country.

The commission's first recommendation is that the nation immediately put into effect a national policy aimed at giving rural "equality of opportunity with all other citizens" in regard to jobs, medical care, housing, education, welfare and all other public services.

Secondly, it said it recommends that the 1964 full employment policy be made effective.

In other recommendations the commissions calls for a nationwide food-stamp program with stamps "given to the poorest of the poor without cost," a thorough reshaping of manpower programs; a major overhaul of the rural education system; provision of better medical care in rural areas; and better rural housing with "special emphasis on a program providing rent supplements for the rural poor."

The report was released just as Congress was about to approve a two-year extension of the antipoverty program. The Senate already has passed the legislation and the House is expected to do so Monday.

Heart Rejection

Dr. Barnard emphasized that Washkansky's symptoms were so minor that the doctors were not certain whether they actually indicated rejection. He reiterated that Washkansky would be able to survive a slight rejection of the new heart.

Besides drugs, Washkansky is receiving cobalt radiation to control his body's rejection of the heart that replaced his own failing one. The new heart came from a 25-year-old woman killed in a traffic accident.

Washkansky left his sterile room in Groote Schuur Hospital Saturday for the second time to take a cobalt treatment in the hospital's radiotherapy center.

The wholesale grocer appeared in good spirits and waved at photographers as he was wheeled away in his bed, surrounded by an oxygen tent.

Dr. Barnard, whose brother, Christian, headed a 30-man surgical team for the transplant, said Washkansky was doing better than many experts had expected.

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) —

Ray Page, state school superintendent, said Saturday it is his opinion that a student at a state-supported school should be required to comply with the Selective Service law and carry a draft card.

Addressing the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University, Page said he believes disrespect of law, and particularly the draft law, should be grounds for expulsion.

Page emphasized that his statements were not aimed at SIU, but represent a policy he will ask governing boards of all state supported schools to adopt.

Page spoke after Robert W. MacVicar, acting SIU president, announced that an advisory committee will be set up to adopt a policy concerning student dissent and protest. He said the committee would be composed of senior faculty members, administrators and students.

The policy, MacVicar said, should conform to state law, federal and state constitutions and what he said was SIU's existing policy of permitting "objective analysis and free discussion."

AWARD $9 MILLION NEW CONTRACTS ON MISSISSIPPI BRIDGE

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) —

The Illinois Division of Highways announced contracts totaling about $9 million have been awarded for additional construction on approaches to the new interstate highway bridge over the Mississippi River.

H. H. Hall Construction Co. of East St. Louis was awarded a $4.4 million contract for grade separation structures and approaches connecting the bridge with U.S. 460.

Robert R. Anderson Co. of Chicago received a $4.6 million award for reinforced concrete bridge deck sections, lighting and other work on the collector roadways in the East St. Louis interchange complex.

Work is expected to begin immediately and be completed in late 1969.

Uncover Murder Plot Directed At Crime Explorer

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles Siragusa, director of the Illinois

Crime Investigating Commission, said Saturday that he learned from a letter smuggled out of the Cook County jail of a plot to murder him.

Siragusa said the letter reported that three members of the crime syndicate who are prisoners and a jail employee were involved in the plot.

There was no indication of the plotters' motive, but Siragusa's work has led to imprisonment and flight of several crime syndicate members.

Jail Warden Jack Johnson said he too had been threatened. Johnson said there are no syndicate hoodlums in the jail now, but added the purported threat to Siragusa "doesn't surprise me. I heard through the grapevine six weeks ago that a price of $100,000 had been placed on my head."

The letter named the plotters, Siragusa said, but he declined to reveal the names or to identify the writer.

Siragusa said, at a meeting of the commission, that he had informed Patrick Tuile, an assistant state's attorney who is conducting a grand jury investigation of conditions in the jail. He said he received the letter several days ago, but did not inform Tuile until Friday night.

Tuile has been looking into allegations of brutality, perversion, dope traffic and an unofficial "barn boss" administration in the jail. A barn boss has been defined as the toughest prisoner of a cell block who takes over the operation of the cell block and usually votes himself extra privileges.

Sheriff Joe Woods and several aides raided a maximum security section of the jail Friday night and reported finding several crates of contraband.

Included, Woods reported, were a refrigerator, hot plate and $119 cash in the cell of Martin Tajra, 34, under death sentence for a 1961 holdup murder. Tajra was said to be barn boss of his section.

Other contraband found in the shakedown of 65 inmates and their cells, Woods reported, included books, razor blades, silverware, paring knife, radios and cold pills.

Policeman Finds Missing Brother After 26 Years

CHICAGO (AP) — An Illinois

Tollway policeman who said he always wanted a brother, found one this week, 26 years after he began looking.

The chance discovery ended the search by Ronald B. Perry of suburban Buffalo Grove.

Until he enlisted in the Navy during World War II Perry didn't even know he had a brother. He thought he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Perry who reared him from childhood on Chicago's North Side.

However, in checking his birth records for recruiters Perry found he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pederson who had placed him in a foster home in 1929 when he was 2 years old.

Perry also discovered he had a brother, Vernon, four years older.

Perry said he continued a search ever since, checking telephone books, newspapers and every name of Pedersen he came across in his police work started when he became a state trooper in 1953.

The discovery came when Perry's wife, Dolores, read an obituary for a George Pederson in Wonder Lake.

A check with the funeral chapel and a call to the man's widow spelled Eureka.

The woman who answered the call was Perry's mother who was living with the family of Perry's long-lost brother, 44.

A reunion was arranged, and afterward Perry remarked, "I've always wanted a brother. It's quite a Christmas present."

GOP Governors Lack Candidate

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) —

Republican governors acknowledged Saturday they have no consensus—and none in prospect—on a presidential candidate for 1968. Colorado's John A. Love said it is becoming less agree to back the man who likely that the GOP nominee will come from the ranks of the governors.

Two days of political conferences at this Florida resort produced no new commitments for any of the potential 1968 candidates. An absent GOP governor, George Romney of Michigan, is the only major contender who has formally declared his candidacy.

Love, retiring chairman of the Republican Governors Association, tempered his forecast of one year ago that a GOP governor would top the 1968 ticket.

"I still think it's likely," he said, "but it is perhaps less likely than it was at that time."

Seventeen Republican state chairmen met privately and two of them expressed dissatisfaction at the governors' failure to agree on a presidential candidate—or on machinery to produce a future agreement.

New Jersey chairman Webster B. Todd said the governors will sacrifice their influence in the 1968 campaign unless they make some move toward a candidate.

Howard E. Russell, the Rhode Island chairman, said he will wadding are in place, you'd be call a meeting of GOP chairman dead."

from the northeastern states to discuss the situation.

Russell said Republican chairmen and governors should look at the opinion polls, take their soundings, then try to agree to back the man who looks like the party's most potent challenger to President Johnson.

Twenty-six strong but unable to align their power behind any potential 1968 contender, the governors had to content themselves with a drive to exert influence on the shape of the party platform.

They agreed to hold their next meeting in June at Lake Eufaula, Okla., after the presidential primaries have been held. The last of the major primaries is California's on June 4.

OUT LIKE FLINT

LONDON (AP) — Flints to Bert Edwards, 75, and his family for two centuries past have meant a traditional livelihood but to the government now they are arms and can't be shipped to South Africa because of an embargo.

Rifle clubs and enthusiasts retain a sentimental regard for the flintlock. Edwards says, and adds: "In this nuclear age you can't fight a war with muskets. It takes two minutes to load. By the time the powder, shot and wadding are in place, you'd be call a meeting of GOP chairman dead."

Check Toy For Safety Before Buying As Gift

An appeal is made by the Illinois Department of Public Health to use care when buying toys for gift-giving this Christmas. A happy Christmas can quickly turn into a tragic one when unsafe toys are given to children. Persons selecting toys are urged to be on the lookout for features that make them unsafe, such as:

1. Be sure paint on playthings contains no lead. Look on box or carton for a statement that paint is lead-free. If there is any doubt, don't give it to a child. Small children especially are likely to chew on toys. If paint containing lead is eaten, it can be very harmful.
2. Avoid items which might, such as bows and arrows, play guns or missiles. Be certain they are old enough to know how to use them safely.
3. Watch out for toys that are small or have little, removable parts. A young child is prone to put everything into his mouth, and he could easily swallow and choke on a small toy or piece of one. Be certain that "eyes", buttons, etc. on stuffed toys are securely attached.
4. Select sturdy toys that will not break or crack easily. Choose those with smooth edges and rounded corners for the very young.
5. Use caution in giving children toys that shoot projectiles, such as bows and arrows, play guns or missiles. Be certain they are old enough to know how to use them safely.

Look on the package for a statement that nonflammable material was used.

Well-meaning friends or relatives may unintentionally give your child a potentially harmful toy. Parents should carefully examine each gift and use their best judgment to determine if the child should be allowed to play with it. Parents should not be afraid of offending the giver by quietly removing a possibly dangerous plaything and saving it until the child is ready to have it.

A great majority of toys available today have been produced with a child's safety in mind. Also, many are age-graded to assist the public in selecting them. Common sense should be used in buying toys and people are urged to consider safety as well as enjoyment as a guide to choosing their gifts. Thoughtfulness in giving a plaything to a child will be appreciated even more by parents when it presents no hazard to their child's health and well-being.

Cleaning Crown Jewels Mighty Tricky Business

By GRANVILLE WATTS
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — "It's a tricky business," said the man who cleans Britain's crown jewels.

"You wouldn't want diamonds dropping out on the floor, would you?"

William Summers gets enthusiastic when he talks about the royal treasure.

"There's one diamond as big as a goose egg," Summers said. "It came from the famous South African Cullinan diamond, weighs 530 carats, and is fitted in the royal sceptre."

Summers, 37, turns up once a year at the heavily guarded crown jewel room in the ancient Tower of London to clean the sparklers.

He has a staff of five, including two plate polishers, to help him clean up the assorted crowns, diadems, orbs, sceptres, golden staffs, rods, rings and heavy gold plate. "You cannot put a value on the crown jewels. They are priceless," Summers said. "The jewels aren't insured. I doubt whether anyone could underwrite them, since no one knows their value."

"But there is a clue. One stone, the Koh-i-Noor diamond, was reckoned to be worth $5.6 million when it was presented to Queen Victoria. That was in 1850."

"Legend traces it back some 4,000 years. The diamond is now in the front of the Queen Mother's crown. It is always worn by women. It has a reputation of bringing death and bad luck to men. It's 108.9 carats, which is a pretty big diamond."

"The present crown of state worn by Queen Elizabeth II is a fine frame of gold and silver set with 3,000 precious stones, mainly diamonds and pearls."

"The most conspicuous stone is the great ruby given to the Black Prince in the 14th century, and which adorned the helmet crown of Henry V at Agincourt," Summers added.

Both parents of Summers and numerous relatives are doctors, but he decided against medicine and joined the crown jewelers, Garrard and Company, in London's West End in 1950.

Summers was appointed crown jeweler in 1962 on the death of the previous office holder, Cecil Mann.

Besides advising on the royal collection, he is concerned with the manufacture and upkeep of the orders of chivalry.

"I'm taking it easy, Gladys. I'm baby sitting with four kids tonight and I want to save my strength!"

"For instance, the Orders of the Garter insignia are sent back to us for cleaning when a knight dies," Summers said. "They are then passed along to the next appointee."

Apart from his visits to the Tower, Summers is present in the background at all state functions when the state crown and other jewels are brought out.

How does Summers feel handling the world's greatest jewel collection?

Service Men Reply To Notes Of Students

NEW BERLIN—The third and fourth grades at St. Mary's School in New Berlin recently were assigned an English lesson with very far-reaching effects. For their assignment in "How To Write Friendly Letters," their teacher Miss Florence McManus assigned each student a Serviceman's name, taken from the newspaper.

The following excerpt is typical of the letters sent by the youngsters: "How are you? I am fine. Do you ever get to sleep? Oh, by the way, I had better tell you my name. It is I will keep you in my prayers. I like writing to people. It is even more fun writing to you. Will you please send me a picture? Please tell me when your birthday is so I can send you a card. I hope you return safe. I will send you a Christmas card on Christmas. I wish I could meet you some day. With all my love." Many told of their brothers and sisters, some of their pets, or their farm life.

Accompanying each child's letter was an explanatory note from the teacher, stating the letter was straight from the child's heart, and not a form letter. They were sent air mail.

The response from the servicemen was overwhelming, with heart-warming letters coming from Japan, Vietnam, Germany, Okinawa, Thailand. They told of their work, the country they were in, and their families, many telling of their own small children at home. From Vietnam: "Thank you for your thoughts and prayers."

Here in Vietnam, we sometimes lose thought and sight of who we are fighting for, what with the Anti-War marches. But I guess we are fighting for their cause as well, so they can keep marching" indicating the freedom Americans enjoy. Another from Vietnam: "Thank you for giving me a few moments of happiness in a place where a smile is rare at most." The proud reflective smiles of the youngsters in the two classes break out into "Would you like to hear the letter I got from MY Serviceman?"

Godfrey - Funk nuptials heard in Winchester

WINCHESTER — An October ceremony in the home of the bride's parents united in marriage Miss Marta Mae Funk of Winchester and Decker Frederick Godfrey, Jr., of Jacksonville.

White mums, greenery and tapers in candelabra banked the fireplace of the Funk home where the Reverend Wayne Hammon of Meredosia performed the single ring ceremony Thursday evening, October nineteenth.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Funk, 243 East Jefferson avenue, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Decker Frederick Godfrey, 1059 West College avenue in Jacksonville.

Miss Judi Hammon of Meredosia and David W. Vorhes of Jacksonville attended the couple. Miss Hammon wore olive green velvet with matching headress. She carried a nosegay of yellow mums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a conventional length dress of pale yellow-embossed white satin with long white gloves. A pearl encrusted white velvet headress held her veil of illusion, shoulder length. Her flowers were white mums and pale yellow carnations in a nosegay arrangement.

Only members of the immediate families attended the ceremony. Following the exchange of vows a supper was served at the Funk home.

Mrs. Godfrey is a graduate of Passavant Hospital School of Nursing and was a registered nurse on the hospital staff until her recent marriage. The groom attended MacMurray College and presently is a student at Fitzsimmons General Hospital in Denver, Colorado, serving in the U.S. Army. The newlyweds are residing at 15680 East Colfax in Aurora, Colo., 80010.

Congregational church education meet Dec. 12-13

The Congregational Church of Jacksonville is planning a two day program on Christian education for Tuesday and Wednesday, December 12 and 13. On Tuesday evening at 6:00 p.m. there will be a potluck supper for all members and friends of the church. At 7:30 p.m. Rev. Alfred Williams, Director of Christian Education, Illinois Conference of United Church of Christ will speak before the group. Discussion and questions will follow. Any interested persons in the community are welcome.

On Wednesday, Mr. Williams will hold conferences with all Sunday School teachers, substitutes and parents who would like to discuss in detail with him the present christian education program of the church. Invitations have been extended to Christian Education Committees of all local churches to meet and talk with Mr. Williams at any time during his visit to Jacksonville.

Sharon Kay McCutchan

WAVERLY — Announcement has been made by her mother of the engagement of Miss Sharon Kay McCutchan of Hillsboro, Indiana, to James H. Summers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Summers of Waverly. A spring wedding is planned.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Kenneth McCutchan of Hillsboro and the late Mr. McCutchan. She was graduated from Lake View School of Nursing at Danville, Illinois and is employed at Culver Hospital in Crawfordville, Indiana. Mr. Summers is a senior at University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine.

Business womens class party set at Hamey home

The Business Women's Bible class of Central Christian church held its November meeting at the home of Miss Flora Sanders starting with a potluck supper at 6:30 p.m. the 27th.

Mrs. Leone Pierson was assistant hostess. Following supper the president, Mildred Davidson called the meeting to order and devotions were in charge of Mrs. Hilda Hardy who used the theme "What A Friend We Have In Jesus." President welcomed all present and thanked the hostesses for having the potluck supper at her home.

Courtesy chairman Virginia Armitage reported on sending cards and flowers to members who had been ill or had a death in the family. Discussion was then held about plans for the annual Christmas party. Mrs. Marie Hamey invited the class to her home Monday evening, December 18th. Further plans will be announced. Officers will be hostesses. There will be the usual dollar gift exchange. The class voted ten dollars to the tree of lights. Lucille Holler served as auctioneer for the white elephant objects sold to raise money for the treasury. Members present besides the hostesses were Marie Hamey, Joyce Mansfield, Edna Bailey, Virginia Armitage, Mildred Ahlquist, Lucille Holler, Hilda Hardy and Mildred Davidson.

Eunice Gotschall, John Edw. Hudson vows at Centenary

A ceremony Monday evening, December fourth, at Centenary Methodist church united in marriage Eunice A. Gotschall and John Edward Hudson of Jacksonville. White mums and snapdragons were used at the church altar where the pastor, the Reverend Donald L. Batz, performed the double ring service.

Mrs. Gary Schone of Arenzville rural route and Edward A. Hudson, Jacksonville route three, grandchildren of the groom, served as the couple's attendants.

The children and families of the couple attended the ceremony, along with other relatives and friends.

A reception was held at the home of the bride, 1003 South Diamond street, where the traditional cake was cut and served. Assisting here were Mrs. Richard Gotschall, Mrs. Harry Hudson and Mrs. Ralph Hudson. The appointments and the home decorations followed the Christmas theme.

The bride wore a sand colored lace dress with matching coat. Her flowers were orchids. Mrs. Schone wore pink wool and her flowers were blue carnations.

After the holidays Mr. and Mrs. Hudson will spend three months in Florida before returning to make their home here.

and daughter, Sherry of Jacksonville, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Parnard and family and Mrs. Opal Irlam of White Hall.

"Pasternak's 'Dr. Zhivago,'" recently published by Southern Illinois University press, was written by Mary F. Rowland and Paul Rowland, well known locally. Professor emeritus Paul Rowland and Mrs. Rowland both taught English at MacMurray College for many years. After Mr. Rowland's retirement in 1955 the couple moved to Maryville, Tennessee where both are active in community and college affairs.

Professor Rowland lectured at Tennessee Wesleyan in Athens and both he and Mrs. Rowland have taught at Maryville College for instructors on leave of absence. They are pictured above as Mrs. Rowland autographs a copy of the book for an admirer.

By Ruth M. Bellatti

Interest in Dr. Zhivago began with a book review by Mrs. Rowland for her literary club in January of 1959. Requests for repeat performances before ten different local groups and a radio program, led her to further research on the subject and aroused the interest of her husband.

Together they wrote a series of four articles, which were published by nationally circulated quarterly magazines, starting in the summer of 1960. The response to these articles was such that the Rowlands were encouraged to broaden their research and to add much new material.

In their retirement years the Rowlands had unexpectedly found a joint project in which each has something special to contribute.

Mr. Rowland's experience in Russia during his early years made him the language researcher of the team and the ideal interpreter of certain puzzling situations in the novel.

Three train journeys across Russia on the Trans-Siberian Railroad in 1903, 1914 and 1927; ten months with the Archangel Expeditionary Forces, 1918-1919, and a winter with a non-English speaking Russian family of the intelligentsia, together with 13 years residence in Bulgaria, gave him valuable knowledge of the language and the Slavic contacts, which proved most helpful.

Mrs. Rowland made an extensive study of Russian literature during her student days and even while she was a member of the English staff at MacMurray College she took a course on The Russian Novel, under Dr. Elizabeth Nichols, renowned professor of English for many years at MacMurray College.

It was the desire of the Rowlands to interpret this complex subtle novel—rich in symbolism and hidden meaning, for the general intelligent reader. The simple, uncluttered style of writing has received the praise of the critics and makes the book attractive to the layman, as well as the scholar.

"Pasternak's 'Dr. Zhivago,'" by Mary and Paul Rowland, one of the crosscurrents series of 50 or more books being published by Southern Illinois University, is available in local bookstores and at libraries.

While in Jacksonville Mr. Rowland was a member of the Literary Union and Mrs. Rowland was active in College Hill. Mr. Rowland served as minister in various churches in the area, including Waverly and Chandler-

Beauty Care Today

By MID

There's an amazing range of skin colors in women. One of the most common is the pink-toned skin.

What is the best make-up plan for the woman with very light skin?

Generally, a pink foundation is the most becoming. Use either the liquid or brush-on type.

Use a white highlighter on any area you wish to be spotlighted. Make sure you apply a highlighter under your eyes.

If you use a shaver, it should be mauve or blue.

Match your eye shadow to your shaver. You may want to use alternating bands of blue and white extended up to the browline. It often results in a lovely effect.

Use brown mascara and eyebrow coloring.

Unromantic South Africans Face Revolt

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — When it comes to romance, South African men just don't make the grade.

"They're little more than barbarians," according to a pretty 21-year-old Johannesburg secretary.

Miss Sandi Philip heads a group of frustrated white girls who call themselves Anti-Men Incorporated. Angered at what they term the loveless attitude taken by South African males, they plan on teaching the menfolk a lesson in gentlemanly conduct and the finer points of love making.

"The days of playing the tough he-man type are over," said Sandi. "We don't want rough diamond, rugby-playing types. We plan teaching them how to become gentlemen and proper loves on a par with continental males."

The girls whose ages range between 18 and 30 plan a nationwide campaign aimed at untached men. Shortly the men will receive a pamphlet entitled "What Every Man Must Know."

"Let's face it," said Sandi, "the time is ripe for a revolution against unromantic South African males."

At its first meeting AMI passed a host of resolutions aimed at deflating the manly image of South African menfolk.

They are the worst lovers in the world.

They brag about female conquests but act like frightened lambs when alone with a woman.

Manners are atrocious and their dress and grooming impossible.

Candlelight and wine is wasted on them. They act like schoolboys when ordering a meal and dance like rugby players trying for a touchdown.

Conversational they reappear is confined to fast cars and sport. They feel it unmanly to whisper sweet nothings into their companion's ear.

Summing up the committee's findings on their unromantic menfolk, the women concluded that their dates acted like "inadequate, uncertain school-boys," when it came to romance.

Miss Philip confidently expects thousands of girls to join her "we want romantic men" club.

"We refuse to accept their barbaric behavior and anti-woman attitudes. We like men to be men," she said. "But they must learn the elementary arts of romance. We women are gentle creatures craving attention, to be left sitting on the shelf."

emotional security and the feeling of wanting to be loved.

"We are tired of rugby-playing barbarians. Unfortunately most South African women marry these tough he-man types," she said.

"Let's face it. We haven't much choice—no woman wants to be left sitting on the shelf."

tourist entrance at the east gate of the White House. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and the senior cabinet officers, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, were ushered in through a side door.

Of 14 weddings through the history of the White House, Lynda's was the seventh of a presidential daughter.

One of her predecessors was three-83-year-old Alice Roosevelt Longworth. She was married 61 years ago in the same spot in the East Room. And today she was one of the few guests privileged to be seated.

"I've never been to a wedding as pretty as this," she said.

The wedding went by the clock-getting under way exactly at 4 p.m., when the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. James Robb of Milwaukee, Wis., descended the red-carpeted staircase from the second floor to the foyer. They proceeded down the great hall to the East Room.

Smiling and nodding as she walked, Mrs. Johnson followed on the arm of a Marine.

The dramatic music of sounding trumpets from the Marine Band's chamber orchestra vibrated through the mansion.

Six groomsmen, two abreast, were followed by the seven bridesmaids in long red velvet gowns.

Luci, in matching red velvet gown, preceded Lynda by moments.

The bride, trailing her long train, held her father's arm and a slight smile flickered on her lips.

Smiling brightly, Lynda drew a long breath and then she and her father strode with measured tread into the East Room and approached the altar where Robb and his best man, Marine Capt. William Douglas Davidson, were waiting with Canon McAllister.

A closed circuit television camera zeroed in on George Hamilton.

Lynda had turned her eyes away when she passed her former boyfriend and one observer reported that he looked grim throughout the ceremony.

The East Room was decked out in greens, garlands, roses, orchids, gardenias, topiary ligustrum trees glinting with white lights and the traditional profusion of holly, poinsettias and mistletoe.

Two of the trees flanked the altar, resting on an 18-inch platform 10 feet square covered in white carpet, just in front of the lowering window at the rear of the room.

A huge screen of Douglas and Noble fir, shimmering with 240 small electric candles, hid the window and its gold damask drapes and provided background for a gold cross and pair of vermeil candlesticks.

For this first marriage in 53 years of a President's daughter at the White House, the Rev. Canon Gerald N. McAllister of San Antonio, Tex., officiated. He impressed the President during the year he has filled in at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church at Fredericksburg, Tex., which the Johnsons attended occasionally.

Under the guidance of the tall, ruggedly handsome canon, the 23-year-old Lynda and 28-year-old Robb joined hands before the altar and vowed to love, comfort and honor one another—obey was not used—"until death do us part."

Gold wedding bands were slipped onto third fingers in the double ring ceremony.

The bride and her husband knelt on a white satin cushion for the benediction and final "Amen."

As they turned and started up the aisle, the Marine Band's 32-piece chamber orchestra struck up the Mendelssohn Wedding March.

Outside the doorway, in the great cross hall, six of Robb's uniformed fellow Marine officers crossed swords to form an archway.

Waiting beyond were overflow guests; a reception in the Blue Room that is more white than blue; a gourmet buffet of hot and cold viands plus unspiced punch, champagne and more potent potables in the State Dining Room and a heated, gay tent on a rooftop terrace beyond; the hewing of the wedding cake with Robb's ceremonial sword; the tossing of the bridal bouquet; dancing in the East Room to Peter Duchin and his orchestra; and—the departure on a honeymoon the Washington Evening Star said would be in Hawaii.

The guest list never was given out. But it looked as if every one of the 500 persons reportedly on it surged through the doors that millions of tourists use to get in to the White House the East Gate.

The emphasis was on families, friends and officialdom.

Hollywood actor George Hamilton was invited. He squired Lynda for a year and a half and was credited with glamorizing a somewhat shy, gangling girl into a sort of Cinderella—except that Chuck Robb turned up with the glass slipper.

The bridge table was a bridge to romance for Lynda and Chuck. He was a White House social aide and available for casual foursomes. During the summer things got around to the dating stage. And by early August Robb proposed.

That was just a year after Luci Johnson wed Pat Nugent here at the Roman Catholic Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. Lynda was maid of honor at the ceremony.

She had a fainting spell but recovered in time to catch Luci's wedding bouquet—which meant that by tradition she should be the next girl in the wedding party to be married. And it happened that social aide Chuck Robb was standing close enough to show up in some of the pictures.

Historic Woman Sleeps No More With Poem Hero

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Apparently the contributions of a certain Mrs. Loring to American independence in the Revolutionary War are too indelicate for Virginia high school students.

The possibility that her charms may have kept a British general from venturing forth against George Washington's weakened army at Valley Forge has been excoriated from a history text approved for use in the state's high schools for the next six years.

The fact that Mrs. Loring may have been one of the nation's earliest unrecognized patriots came to light in a poem by Francis Hopkinson, poet, statesman and signer of the Declaration of Independence.

snug as a flea. Lay all the time a snoring. Nor thought of harm, as he lay warm. In bed with Mrs. Loring."

In the history text, however, the last line has been reviewed to read: "His dreams of victory soaring."

A spokesman for the state said he didn't know who ordered the change but he was certain it wasn't anyone connected with the state board or State Department of Education.

Trace Poisoning Of 50 Persons To Turkey Salad

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Food poisoning which affected about 50 persons Thursday has been traced to contaminated turkey salad sandwiches, the St. Louis City Health Commissioner said Saturday.

Dr. J. Earl Smith said the turkey used in preparing the sandwiches became contaminated after it was cooked. Health officials said the sandwiches were prepared in a central kitchen Thursday morning and were delivered to 12 schools about two hours later.

The First Lady said that "I began to sense then that this had some deeper implications."

Mrs. Johnson said she is certain "a sudden wave of loneli-ness" will hit her from time to time when she peeks into Lynda's empty room at the White House. But she said that where-as the Johnsons entered the White House as a family of four, "now we are seven."

"That doesn't make for loneli-ness," she said. "That just makes for more happiness when you can get together."

Mrs. Johnson was asked what kind of discipline she imposed on Lynda and Luci.

The President chimed in: "The answer is she didn't apply any. She would just say, 'Al-ways remember you are trust-ed, always remember you are loved, always remember we care and I know that you are going to do what is right.'"

The first lady described Lynda as "so intelligent and so companionable—she has a question-ing mind and a great sense of excitement in facing life."

She said Lynda was "my best companion for a lot of things that we do together—trips, going to plays and going to art

Kiwanis Hears Of Day Care School

The three-year progress and the current needs of the Jacksonville Pre-School, Inc., more commonly known as the "Day School," were presented Thursday to the Jacksonville Kiwanis Club by, center left, Mrs. Ernestine Krebiel, acting-president of the school; and third from left, Bill Meyer, volunteer equipment chairman.

The Day School, which is located in Walnut Terrace, is open to all children of the community. Admission is not based upon parental income or where children live in the community. Tuition is on a sliding scale and ranges from 40c to $2.60 a day, according to Meyer.

The speakers said that the school needs to find additional sources of revenue, since income averages $400 a month, with expenses averaging $700 per month.

Except for the need of additional operational funds, the four major problems encountered by the school when it opened have been nearly solved. The problems were a need of equipment, for money, for competent staff members, and for volunteer helpers.

According to Meyer, the organizers had thought there would be "war on poverty" funds available, but this did not materialize. It is considered a blessing, since the school can now plan and administer its own programs as it desires to meet community needs. The school is

The family will meet friends at the Massie Funeral Home from 2-9 p.m. Sunday.

DESAI WAS CAUGHT
NEW DELHI (AP) — Deputy Prime Minister Morarji Desai told a group of students they should not imitate the West. Among other things, he said they should discard the hand-shake and do the Indian "namaskar" with hands folded in front of the body.

The next day, he was photographed shaking hands with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. Newspapers were deluged with letters to the editor, criticizing Desai and pointing out that he not only was inconsistent, but also that in India it is bad manners to shake hands with a woman.

Would you believe you've never served a meal on a really sanitary dish?

Sure, they're as clean as you can get them, but are they sanitized?

Washing dishes by hand may get your dishes visibly clean, but it takes the scalding water temperature and more powerful detergents of an automatic dishwasher to make sure they're really sanitized. This extra health protection and peace of mind is just the beginning of the benefits.

You can also forget the drudgery and backache of doing dishes the old-fashioned way. Dishes are out of sight. You have a cleaner counter and sink.

You have more time for family activities—figure an hour each day! And nobody gets stuck doing the dishes.

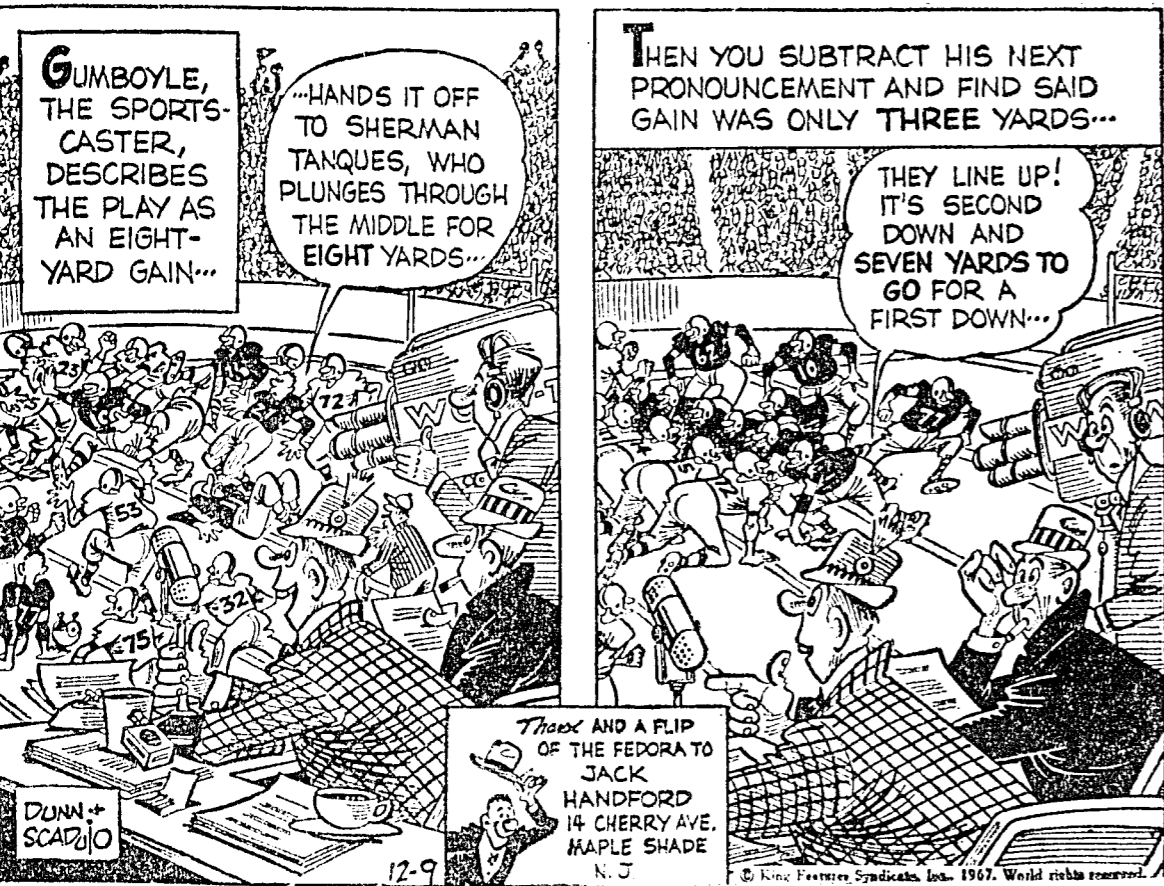

Speaking of "stuck", many new automatic dishwashers feature increased water speeds for those sticky pots and pans. So, isn't it time your whole family discovered that...

Happiness is...an automatic dishwasher!

Elegant Lace Cookies Can Be Made At Home

Those wonderful cookies sold in fine pastry shops can be made at home.

Just a few ingredients are called for in the recipe—ground almonds, butter, sugar and a suspicion of flour and milk. Your degree of success depends on how adept you are in removing the cookies from the cookie sheets. Here we find that greasing and flouring the sheets—as directed in the recipe—helps a lot.

When we've made these cookies we've stored them in a tightly covered tin box and they've stayed crisp. But in some climates, the cookies soften. Should this happen, they may be placed on a cookie sheet in a moderate oven for about 30 seconds, then cooled slightly before they are removed.

Directions for curling the cookies are given, but we think they taste just as good in flat wafer shape. The advantage of curling them is that they may be filled with whipped cream and served as an elegant "fork" dessert.

ALMOND LACE COOKIES
2-3rds cup blanched whole almonds
1/2 cup (1/4 pound) butter
1/2 cup sugar

LONG'S PHARMACY
East Side Square

Onto well greased and floured cookie sheets, drop level tablespoonsful of the mixture about 4 inches apart. Place only 4 or 5 at a time on a large cookie sheet.

Bake at 350 degrees until lightly browned—6 to 8 minutes. Cool slightly on cookie sheets, then with a wide spatula carefully remove.

To shape into curls, quickly place over a rolling pin or a roll of heavy aluminum foil. If cookies harden before removing from sheets, return to oven for a few seconds to soften). Cool on wire racks. Makes about 1 1/2 dozen. If any pan coating adheres to cookies, use a pastry brush to brush it off.

A 'Fresh' Christmas Tree Is A Safe One

Water will keep your Christmas tree fresh, and a fresh tree is a safe tree.

University of Illinois Extension forestry specialist T. W. Curtin says that water alone maintains tree freshness. Many of the gimmicks being marketed actually do more harm than good in maintaining tree freshness.

And even if you use a protective product, you have to keep your tree well-watered. Drying will cause the foliage to shrink and will cause its "protective" coating to crack and flake off.

Curtin says that tree freshness is difficult to determine. Color does not indicate freshness. Yellowing is a natural and healthy characteristic of some Scotch pine varieties.

But freshness is easy to preserve. Make a diagonal basal cut or a tapered cut around the butt of the tree to expose a greater surface area to the water supply. Then provide a never-ending supply of water at the base of the tree.

And a well-watered, fresh tree may be more safe than many artificial trees. Some artificial trees are made of highly combustible materials.

The important thing to remember, Curtin emphasizes, is that a well-watered Christmas tree is a safe tree. If you supply your tree with plenty of water, there's no need to use unproven protective products.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

HOG PRICE DROP MAY PREVENT OVEREXPANSION

Many of the farmers who produce our ham and pork chops have been disappointed. Prices for hogs have been lower than they expected. The lower prices, however, will bring some benefit. They will help to prevent an excessive increase of pork production next year.

Hog prices have been lower than some of us expected, primarily because market supplies have been larger than we anticipated. Back in June, the USDA reported that the 1967 spring pig crop was only 1 percent larger than that of the previous year. The spring pig crop includes all pigs born from the previous December 1 to the first of June. Most of these pigs are marketed during the last half of the year.

We expected marketings of hogs to be a little larger than the reported increase in the number of pigs born and saved; we thought that farmers would hold back relatively fewer gilts for breeding this year than they did in 1966. We expected marketings to run no more than 3 percent greater than last year.

More Hogs Sold

Actual marketings of hogs were up 13 percent in July and August, and around 5 percent since September 1. Since the first of July, the output of other red meats (beef, veal, lamb, and mutton) has been close to year-before levels.

If the market receipts of hogs had been no larger than last year, prices probably would have held around the $20 level. Such prices would surely have stimulated too much production in 1968.

Actual prices for hogs in recent weeks often were much lower—around $17 and $18. While these prices permit most hog producers to make a little money, they probably have not been good enough to bring on much of an increase in production.

The Pig Crop Report issued in September pointed to fall and winter farrowings (September-February) of 1 percent less than a year ago. Pigs from these farrowings will make up the market supplies during the 6 months beginning with April.

The September Pig Crop Report listed 6 percent fewer hogs weighing 60 to 120 pounds on hand September 1 this year than 1 year before. These hogs will be going to market beginning in December. Pigs weighing under 60 pounds were estimated to number 1 percent more than last year. They will make pork beginning in March.

Not So Many

There has been some talk about a heavy run of hogs when farmers round up the hogs in the corn fields. But the number of such hogs is much smaller than it was 10 or 20 years ago. Modern farming methods just don't provide much opportunity for finishing hogs in corn fields.

Illinois farmers may be loosening their grip on the nation's hog business. They are credited with producing about 13 percent of the nation's pork in 1966. Two years earlier, they produced nearly 14 percent of the hogs.

Winchester Youths Top FFA Contest

Robert Boester (center) and Tom Witwer of Winchester made the two highest corn yields in this FFA section of the state with yields of 262.3 and 248.5 bushels per acre.

These yields were made under the supervision of Gordon Adamson, vocational agriculture instructor at their high school, (right). At the time the corn was weighed, shelled corn samples were also taken and a moisture test was made and the yield figured on the basis of No. 2 corn with 15 per cent moisture.

Robert made his highest yield of 262.3 bushels per acre with Pioneer 321. Tom made his highest yield of 248.5 bushels per acre with Pioneer 3304; and David made his highest yield of 243.4 bushels per acre with Pioneer 314.

This FFA section No. 15 includes the counties of Morgan, Scott, Calhoun, Jersey and Macoupin. There were 13 high schools and 153 boys entered in the corn growing contest this year in this FFA section.

All vocational agriculture students are eligible to enter this corn growing contest and free seed corn is supplied to all students who enter. Cash awards of $25, $15 and $5 are given to the three students obtaining the highest yield in each FFA section of the state.

In the state there were 2,659 boys entered in the contest this year from 263 high schools. State winner was DeWayne Orr at the Mendon high school, Adams county, who produced 265.5 bushels per acre with Pioneer 3304.

The boys obtaining the 15 highest corn yields in this FFA

Here are the boys' own stories of how they produced their exceptionally high corn yields:

ROBERT: "Upland light brown timber prairie soil was fall plowed 10-12 inches deep, turning under a very heavy crop of shredded stalks and about 400 pounds of fertilizer per acre. Land was disked twice and planted May 10 under ideal conditions. 25,000 kernels per acre were planted with about 150 lbs. starter fertilizer in 33" rows banded with a 14" band of Atrazine. Ideal growing season permitted side-dressing with 150 lbs. of anhydrous ammonia in 4-6 leaf stage and one plowing at about knee high. No one could remember ever having seen corn grow so fast and look so uniform."

Yield was checked in a class field trip under the supervision of Mr. Adamson our vocational ag. instructor in the early part of November.

TONI: "I was a little late in getting it plowed. I finished plowing on May 23. Shortly after plowing, a slurry mix containing Atrazine was applied. Then it rained and I was unable to cut the fertilizer in as is recommended. Finally it dried up and I pulverized once, harrowed it and planted on June 7."

The slurry had an analysis of 6-12-12 and cost $11 per acre. Atrazine included. It was applied at a rate of 355 pounds per acre. The Atrazine did its job beautifully and no cultivation was needed for weed control. However, on July 11 I did cultivate to loosen the ground for aeration."

On the 15th of July nitrogen was applied at the rate of 100 pounds an acre and at a cost of $5.75 per acre. After the nitrogen was applied there was nothing I could do but stand back and watch it grow and grow it did."

My vocational agriculture class under the direction of Gordon Adamson checked the yield on October 25. Our figures showed an almost unbelievable yield of 248 bushels."

On Nov. 29 harvest was begun. The corn was still standing beautifully and there wasn't a weed to be found in the field."

The Christmas season is one of the most dangerous for home fires. With this in mind consider:

—A small tree is less hazardous than a big one.
—Keep tree outdoors till ready to put up. Make a diagonal cut at butt to provide for better absorption of water. Keep cut covered with water.

—Keep tree away from radiators. A mixture of one pound of borax, one-half pound of boric acid in one gallon of water makes a flame retardant for trees and greens.

—Don't leave tree lighted when you are away from home.
—Check needles near lights for browning. If found, move lights.
—When needles start falling, take it out.

BRIMFUL and running over

By Jim Brim

More than any other element a poor battery is likely to be your chief winter headache.

If you expect to start a car, truck, tractor in the winter the first thing you need is a battery that is in good shape. If the specific gravity is below 1.225 or there is more than a .25 difference between cells think about a new one.

Give your battery all the help you can. Clean off grease, corrosion, dirt and replace frayed cables.

When starting a tractor use only partial throttle; an open throttle draws in more air and increases compression. Use full choke only until first explosion. Above all, do not run any engine inside a building unless it is properly ventilated.

Emily Reynolds Of Pittsfield Dies Thursday

PITTSFIELD — Mrs. Emily Reynolds, 84, of Pittsfield passed away at 4:35 p.m. Thursday at Illini hospital.

She was born at Pittsfield March 1, 1883, daughter of Albert B. and Emily Watson Carey.

Her first husband, Bert Burbridge, preceded her in death. She later married Dr. R. W. Reynolds, who survives.

Also surviving are three daughters: Miss Hester Burbridge of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. Margaret Storey of Oak Park and Mrs. Emily B. Kuhlman of Pittsfield; a grandson, Robert Storey of Salt Lake City, Utah and three great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Reynolds was a member of the Christian church.

Funeral services will be held at the Plattner Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Sunday. Reverend Duane Moss and Reverend Joe Maynard officiating. Burial will be in Pittsfield West cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home until time of services today.

FARMERS TO GET AUDIT OF FUNDS FROM GOVERNMENT

Farmers will benefit from a new reporting service which has been inaugurated by Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Lester E. Martin, chairman of the Morgan ASC County Committee, announced last week. A report of payments made to each farmer under ACP, cotton, feed grain, wheat, and other direct payment programs during 1967 will be mailed to the farmer during the latter part of January.

"This report is expected to be helpful in preparing individual income tax returns. The same information must also be furnished to the Internal Revenue Service in accordance with a requirement of law," Martin stated.

It is estimated that over three million farmers will receive this report. This information is being gathered from county offices and summarized by computers located at New Orleans and Kansas City. The reports are being printed by the computers and mailed direct to farmers. A job of this size could not be completed without an automated system, Martin added.

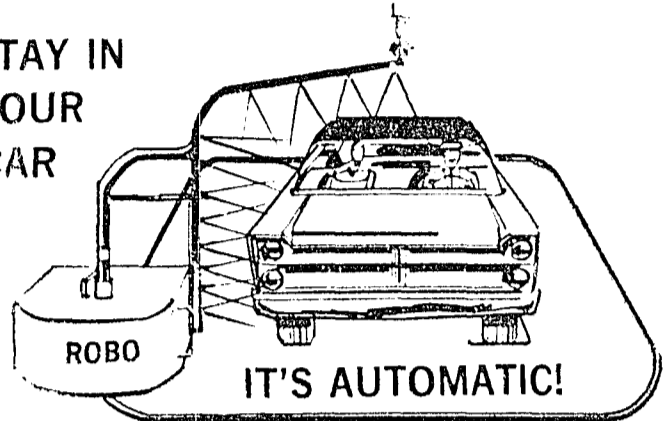

Since this is the first year for a service of this magnitude, there are bound to be a few problems. He suggested that farmers carefully read the explanation on the report and check the accuracy of the total reported by comparing it with farm records. If an error is discovered, the county ASCS office should be contacted to have the mistake corrected. County offices have been instructed to give farmers whatever assistance they need regardless of where the farm is located.

One way to be a really successful fisherman is to learn to think like a fish. The way to be a really successful defensive player is to learn to think like the declarer.

South didn't like to keep rebidding his five card heart suit, but the game was rubber bridge and he had 100 honors. Furthermore, once he got started he never got a real chance to quit.

He won the club lead with his jack and decided his best play would be to take the spade finesse, so he led a spade and finessed dummy's queen at trick two. Then he discarded a diamond on the ace of spades and ruffed a spade with his ten of trumps.

West overruffed and played ace and eight of diamonds. East was in with the queen and noted that South had dropped the nine on that second diamond lead.

This was an automatic correct false-card. West could hold the seven of diamonds. He couldn't hold the nine because he would have led it.

It was up to East to make the correct play at this point. If West held the missing diamond, East's only hope would be to lead his last spade and hope that it would produce a trump trick for his partner.

As you can see, the diamond play sets the contract. The spade lead allows South to ruff, draw trumps and get rid of his last diamond on a spade.

How did East figure out that the diamond play was correct? He thought like the declarer. It was rather apparent that South started with nine red cards. If six were hearts and headed by ace-king, South would simply have played ace-king of trumps once the spade finesse worked and then would have taken a discard of one of his three diamonds. Thus it became apparent that South was trying to handle four little diamonds and had started with only five trumps.

Q—The bidding has been:
West North East South
1 ♠ 2 ♦ Pass 1 ♠ ?

You, South, hold:
♠ A Q 10 7 6 ♥ 2 ♦ A Q 10 7 6 5 ♣ 3
What do you do now?
A—Bid three diamonds. You don't really expect to get to game, but you may shut out a heart call by West.

TODAY'S QUESTION
You bid three diamonds. West bids four clubs, your partner four diamonds and East five clubs. What do you do now?

JERSEYVILLE MAN PLEADS INNOCENT

A Jerseyville man appeared before Magistrate Paul Fenstermaker Friday morning and entered a plea of innocent to deceptive practice and asked for a trial by jury.

Norman Dickerman of Jerseyville entered his plea of innocent and was scheduled for a jury trial January 15.

Dickerman is charged in a complaint that he issued a $1,763 worthless check to the Woodson Sale Barn August 25.

FLOOR-RESISTANT

When buying clothes for creepers, be sure to choose garments that can be washed and bleached. Select a fabric-safe bleach in the form of dry chlorine beads. This will not weaken fibers that have been exposed to the abrasion that comes with the crawler's progress across the floor.

Have you been wondering what to get that Girl Scout daughter or granddaughter for Christmas? Think no longer because the local agency store, Waddell's has a lovely assortment of gift items that would please any Brownie or Cadette Scout. A Girl Scout bracelet might be an excellent way to say "thank you" to your leaders.

Five of our Senior Scouts have been doing a great job at the office aid bar. They are Debbie Spencer, Janice Reeve, Karen Curtis, Nancy Clapper, and Helplan on visiting, notifying them di Hanson. Three more who are as to date and time you will working for their merchandising be there. Be sure also, to have bar at Waddell's are Kathy permission slips from all your Whitton Debbie Spencer, and girls. A list of addresses of Carol Eades. There are also those people requesting carol- Senior Scouts serving as Pink ers to come is available from the office.

Ever wonder why you got involved in Girl Scouts? German author Hans Habe once said, "The World is one percent good, one percent bad, and 98 percent neutral. And that is why what individuals do is important." You may only be one individual, but when working with young people it really does count.

At this time the Board of Directors of the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council would like to extend to all Scouts and Scouters the best of wishes for the coming year. Bigger and better things are possible through your efforts in scouting. We appreciate this fact.

Charge Local Man With DUI

A 43-year old local man was released on bond Friday night after being charged by city police with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Authorities identified the man as Donald E. Vieira, 43, of 523 Sheridan, who was taken into custody following an accident at the intersection of Dunlap and West State street at 9:46 p.m.

Officers said that Vieira was west-bound on State street and turned into the path of an east-bound unit driven by Julia A. Hull of Murrayville.

Vieira was also ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Who Takes China After Mao?

By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP) — Emperor-like Mao Tse-tung sits above the crowd. Down in the agitated arena, a handful of picked, trusted men and women run Red China in his name.

They are Defense Minister Lin Biao, his anointed successor, Premier Chou En-lai; Chen Po-ta, once Mao's secretary and now chief of the current purge; party leader Kang Sheng, a shadowy form in the background; and Mao's own wife, Chiang Ching.

Others may attach themselves from time to time to this central cluster and break away. But these are the five main crutches upon which Mao leans in his aged struggle to seize undisputed power.

Ambition, personal devotion to Mao, a thirst for glory and power, hatred, jealousy, who knows which of these ingredients have brought these disparate people together.

Whatever they have thought, they have gone along with Mao's wildest ideas and pushed—in varying degrees of enthusiasm—his campaign to tear asunder the fabric of communism which Mao himself so laboriously sewed together in a lifetime of revolutionary struggle.

From their midst, in all likelihood, will come the man—or woman—who will rule China after death, or the disabilities of age, have removed Mao from the tumultuous scene.

Their power today is enormous, yet, after nearly 18 months of thunder and lightning, they have succeeded in making Mao's word absolute in only six of China's 26 provinces and autonomous regions; only two—Peking and Shanghai—of China's metropolises.

In the last analysis, if the going gets too rough, only Lin Biao, Chiang Ching and Chen Po-ta may see Mao through. They are too personally and unequivocally committed to him to go anywhere else. Chou, with a long history of opportunism—knowing when to jump—and Kang, once criticized in the past for disobeying orders, are less certain.

In these divisions may lie the answer to who will take over China after Mao. If the transition is to be in Mao's lifetime, Lin Biao may well be the man; everything now points to it. But he is an ill man, despite his comparative youth at 59. Should he falter physically, it is not impossible that Madame Mao, bearing the great authority of Mao's name, would be mistress of all she surveyed.

Death, as it usually does, could change all this. It could mark a resurgence of the antagonism which it is now confirmed lingered and flickered against Mao in his lifetime. In that case, Chou's malleability, his mediatory role in the present struggle between the two camps, may leave him the only possible choice to pick up the pieces.

Lin Biao's present claim to eminence is an almost unwavering devotion to Mao and to his ideas.

In public, he looks pale and small, eclipsed by the bluff, hearty Mao. His speeches in the Hupch dialect are slow and plodding, never illuminated by the flashes of rhetoric and anecdote which set Mao apart.

By comparison, Chou is popular, handsome, a born actor, a skillful administrator and China's best diplomat. Not only does he run a crippled government, give orders to the army, and keep an eye on foreign affairs, but he is the marriage counselor, mediator, trusted uncle in the stormy marriages of Maoist alliances springing up in some parts of the country.

For Chen Po-ta, Mao's rebellion against the Liu machine was opportunity at its brightest. For years he had sat in Mao's shadow, editing the theoretical journal Red Flag, singing Mao's praises to an empty hall. Suddenly, almost overnight—in the Aug. 1-12 plenary session of the Central Committee—he found himself washed up on the political beach, a handsome survivor of the purges which had taken place. From 11th position in the Central Committee and an alternate membership of the politburo, he now finds himself No. 4 and standing committeeman of the politburo.

As chairman of the cultural purge group of the Central Committee, he has a finger in every pie; even Chiang Ching takes a back seat in this group of which she is first deputy chairman.

At 64, Kang Sheng hardly ever appears in the limelight; he is the organization man par excellence. Mild-looking, with more the air of a scholar than of a rebel, he has been a Maoist for years, once crossed swords with President Liu in the Central Committee over Mao's place in this constitution.

Most spectacular of the five, of course, is Chiang Ching. Twenty-two years ago, she was a simple housewife, plain, pleasant-faced and apparently totally divorced from politics. Lin, Chou, Kang and Chen already were old in politics.

Today, she is the termagant of the revolution, talking, talking, talking. Four years ago, the actresses of the Chinese opera and of the stage and movies turned up their noses at her, refused to listen to her when she said they were defying her husband.

When Mao regained control of the rump Central Committee in 1966, Chiang Ching had her revenge. Gone was the quiet, soft-spoken housewife; in her place on the podium before thousands of Chinese was the avenging angel. She packed the Peking Opera, the art and stage groups off to the army to let them contemplate their errors under guard.

She got herself named an advisor to the army's purge committee, became second in command of the party purge group. Heads rolled when she was crossed: two-thirds of those who once sat beside her now are in disgrace.

Like many of China's old empresses, Chiang Ching has a streak of toughness running through her personality.

How much do these five follow Mao's instructions? How many of the decisions which daily flow out to the masses are their own, embroidered and enlarged from some oracular statement by the great man himself?

No one is quite sure. But one thing is certain: together they form the supergovernment which runs the confused China of today.

In ancient times, Algeria was known as Numidia. It was a Roman colony with an advanced civilization.

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:

It is twenty-eight years since envelopes came into use, and who now thinks of sending a letter without one.

THE MACHINE SHOP ELECTION — The city special election on Tuesday resulted in favor of the subscription of $70,000 to bring the railroad shops to Jacksonville, 378 votes being cast in favor of the tax. This is a clear majority.

The long continued drought has at last given place to broken weather. Rain commenced to fall yesterday and we shall probably soon receive a much needed supply of water without the aid of artificial works.

Our worthy county clerk, John Trabue, visited Springfield yesterday. This is an event, as he is seldom to be found outside of his office.

We were favored on Tuesday with a call from Mr. McMullen, editor of the Chicago Evening Post, who is spending a few days in our city. Mr. McMullen is every inch a gentleman.

On last Monday evening an infant about two weeks old, wrapped in a shawl, was left at the door of Mr. Thomas Cannon's residence, corner of Church and Court streets. It was discovered by some children and taken in. Early the next morning a young woman, about eighteen or twenty years old, called and claimed the child as her own. She stated that it had been taken from her while she was asleep. She found it by inquiring of boys on the street. She declined giving her name and took off with the child. Emerson lectures before the Sigma Pi Society to-morrow night.

From the Beardstown Central Illinoisian:

Frank Hammer would like very much to see some of his old customers and them pass in a few greenbacks just now.

Frank expects to continue in the business without interruption, so that there will be no opportunity afforded to dodge these little claims.

LOOK OUT FOR SWINDLERS — People should not pay money for newspaper to strangers. There are several swindlers in the West taking subscriptions for the Western Rural New Yorker, etc. Subscribe through the Postmaster, or some one you personally know to be trustworthy.

SAVE YOUR MONEY — We understand that quite a number of gentlemen over in the little village on the Prairie (Virginia) have offered to furnish one thousand dollars each in order to influence the Court now hearing the county seat election case. We have too high an opinion of the integrity of the Honorable Judges to even entertain the slightest thought of doing such. We have no fears of the Honorable Court being influenced by any such corrupt schemes. For the presumptuous mushroom upstart, up on the Prairie, to attempt a City like ours, in a matter of this kind, is like the toad making war upon the elephant. You hadn't brains enough to conceal your outrageous fraud, neither do you have money enough to perpetrate it!

Ladies are especially invited.

Business on the Illinois river has been very dull this season. The dullness was caused by the unprecedented low water — there having been but two months of good navigation since the ice broke up last spring.

Weather prophets assert that severe weather may not be expected for some time to come. They base their predictions on the fact that the muskrats, who seem to have an unerring instinct in such matters, are said to have just commenced building their winter quarters. However, we are disposed to dispute with the aquatic rodents these cold mornings.

To make their dens cozy for winter, grizzly bears dig them into slopes and line the burrows with evergreen boughs for warmth.

A dispatch from Quebec says that large numbers of the Canada working class are leaving for the United States, because of the scarcity of employment in the dominion.

In Prussia, according to a letter from Berlin, this year's conscriptions is still going on. To fill up the ranks of the four new corps d'armes created since last year's campaign against France, no less than 100,000 men have been levied instead of the ordinary quota.

PANCAKE SUPPER MONDAY AT CHURCH IN BROWN COUNTY

MT. STERLING — The Ripley Church of God is sponsoring a pancake supper Monday evening, Dec. 11th, to which the public is invited. Serving will start at 6:30 p.m.

Rev. Jack Heary, pastor of the church, will show slides taken during his trip to Expo 67 the past summer, following the supper.

A marriage license was issued Dec. 8th in the Brown county clerk's office here to Fern Ann Orr and Ty Eugene Newbold, both of Quincy.

The Daisy Unit of Homemakers Extension will have an all-day meeting Tuesday, Dec. 12th, at the country home of Mrs. Randall Glasgow here.

Larry Hoover is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyndle Hoover at Timewell during the seven day army furlough he has prior to reporting to a base in Georgia.

Ashland Class Has Shower For Missionary

ASHLAND — The Loyal Berean class of the Church of Christ entertained at a personal shower for our missionary, Miss Ruth Smith, in the church basement Thursday afternoon, December 7, at 2 p.m. Thirty-five were present.

Two Christmas songs were sung, and a very interesting talk was given by Miss Smith of her work in the Philippine Islands, where she will return in January, after several months furlough here and in the surrounding communities. She was the recipient of many nice gifts.

Refreshments of homemade cookies, tea and coffee were served.

Prosperous Business Kidnaped, Another Machine-Gunned To Death

By ROBERT BERRELEZ
Associated Press Writer

GUATEMALA (AP) — Starting home one evening, a prosperous businessman was about to get in his car when four men wearing national police uniforms stopped him.

Thus Carlos Herrera Dorion, 65, was kidnaped almost in the heart of the city. He was fortunate. Police rescued him four days later without payment of the $50,000 asked.

The day after that case was solved, another prominent industrialist, Jaime Oswaldo Recinos, was machine-gunned to death while driving to his plant outside the city. A specially assigned police bodyguard, riding at his side, was gravely wounded.

In the same week, Guatemala newspapers reported two other kidnappings and three murders. These are recent examples of swift, muffled violence going on behind the modernistic glow and bustle of this mountaintop capital in Central America. It's the product of a deadly urban war that has claimed over 1,000 lives—perhaps as many as 4,000—in 16 months.

The conflict is a threat to badly needed stability in a country that has known only thin stretches of peace since U.S. intervention prevented a leftist takeover in 1954.

Behind the violence are four recognizable elements: extremists from the left and right, organized hoodlums and a clandestine police-military operation combatting all of them.

A Castroite guerrilla threat to the government of Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro seems to be liquidated. But die-hards have moved into the urban centers in an effort to acquire new financing for their operations through kidnappings and holdups.

At the same time right-wing extremists, originally mobilized under the name of Mano Blanca (White Hand) to fight the leftist guerrillas, would like to topple the military-backed Mendez regime. They feel its increased taxation and reforms threaten traditional privileges. Some high-ranking officers are known to be sympathetic to the rightists, whose strategy of urban violence is aimed at frightening investors and weakening the national economy.

There are increasing signs, authorities say, that organized outlaw bands, posing either as far rightists or leftists, have moved into the fight purely for profit.

Men in key positions for political evaluation say that despite the upsurge in violence during November, the urban conflict is in its final stages. Internal security, thoroughly reorganized easily, with some U.S. aid, is being beefed up with a $10.3-million budget in 1968. Armed forces funds have been trimmed from $14.6 million in 1967 to $14.1 million in next year's $200-million national budget.

These sources believe President Mendez Montenegro has solidified his position. They expect him to become the first democratically elected president to finish out his term of office since Juan Jose Arevalo in 1951.

Guatemala needs sharp reforms. Of its 4½ million people, 40 per cent live totally outside the national economy.

About 77 per cent of the 3 million rural population cannot read or write.

So far, the privileged classes have resisted much change. In some cases they've demonstrated a willingness to negotiate a softening of reforms.

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures

Fifty years ago Arthur James Balfour, foreign secretary of Great Britain, officially announced that His Majesty's government viewed with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people. This month, Israel honors the golden anniversary of this historic event with a set of two new postage stamps.

A 15-agarot stamp depicts Dr. Chaim Weizmann, pioneer in the fight for Israel's independence and first president of the new state. A 40-agarot stamp features a portrait of Lord Balfour. The 15 agarot is purple and the 40 is brown. Each stamp bears the inscription "Balfour Declaration 1917-1967."

According to the Israel Philatelic Agency in America, a set of three stamps has been issued to commemorate International Tourist Year. Like many other countries, Israel has issued stamps in cooperation with the United Nations proclamation selecting 1967 as the International Tourist Year and its slogan "Tourism—Passport to Peace."

The tourist stamps in 30, 40 and 80 agarot denominations display the message "Welcome to Israel" in Hebrew, French and English, respectively. Both the Balfour and tourist sets are available at your local stamp dealer.

Five new definitive stamps have been issued by India. The new stamps dedicated to family planning will replace the corresponding values bearing the map of India designs. The family emblem—a couple with two children standing on a triangle adorns the stamps.

Another definitive series by India features four different designs but no particular theme. One stamp shows a vase of bidriware. Another depicts brassware. The third illustrates a jet plane and the fourth pictures the famous Somnath Temple.

South Africa has issued two stamps to mark the 450th anniversary of the Reformation. One stamp bears the portrait of Martin Luther and the other stamp shows the door on which Luther is said to have nailed his 95 theses on Oct. 31, 1517.

BIG BUT CLOSE

Defensive tackle Emerson Carr of Navy presented a unique problem for equipment manager Skip Kaleta when he first joined the football squad a year ago.

"We had all kinds of problems finding a pair of shoes to fit Emerson," recalls Kaleta. "We finally put his feet on a piece of paper, drew an outline and sent it to the manufacturer."

"We wound up with an 11 EEE for his left foot and an 11½ EEEE for his right."

Businessmen Hear Narcotics Control Officer

ALEXANDER — The Alexander Business Association at a meeting held Dec. 4, heard Howard J. Osmer of the Illinois Division of Narcotics Control discuss measures taken to combat the use of illegal drugs in this area.

The president, Wesley Petefish, conducted the business session and Harold Cockin presented the secretary's report. Byron Strawn, chairman of the 1968 nominating committee, submitted the names of the following as candidates for office: Tim Lynn, president; Carl Becker, vice-president; Harold Cockin, secretary and treasurer. All were elected by unanimous vote.

PORA MEMBERS PREPARE FOR YULETIDE SEASON

The regular P.O.R.A. business meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Y.M.C.A. Last week's activities included a trip to St. Louis, a visit to the famed Gateway Arch and a cinerama movie.

On Thursday, Mrs. Thelma Beaird of Illinois Power company demonstrated ways of preparing delicious and nutritional meals.

On Wednesday, December 13, P.O.R.A. members will meet at the "Y" to complete preparations for the Christmas party, to be held December 21.

Anyone interested in helping with the plans or in making decorations will be welcome to attend the meeting.

AIR POLLUTION in St. Louis has caused a co-ordinating council to meet weekly to formulate a model air-pollution control ordinance that would rid the city of its plaguing problem. At left, the Gateway Arch is shrouded in smog on a November morning. St. Louis women, top right, wear gas masks to press a point as they distribute a health bulletin. Air Pollution Control officials, bottom right, study a recording tape from automatic gas analyzers in an air monitoring station at St. Louis' city hall.

The Mature Parent

Put Reliance in Yourself And Strength Is Yours

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Four years ago, when my husband died under surgery, my brother told me that I was not to worry about getting my son through college. He told me this at the funeral. But now that the boy is ready to apply to a university, he says he never promised to pay his tuition. This is his wife's doing. Mrs. Lawrence, my brother is a very well-to-do man and has always seemed the embodiment of responsibility to me. Is there nobody to trust in this world?

ANSWER: See your son's high school principal. Ask him to tell you what other arrangements can be made to get the boy through college. And now, regarding this brother of yours, I remind you of how much we need affection when we have lost a loved person to death. We need it so terribly we tell ourselves that we have received it when what we've received is just talk about it. We'll tell ourselves, for example, that the brother whose arm is supporting us during a husband's funeral is a veritable pillar of strength. And to then have to know that he's just another self-interested human is very harsh knowledge. Indeed, but if we refuse to collapse under it, we discover that we are our own pillar of strength.

That's why I want you to pull out of this shocked disillusion by exploring other ways to finance your son's college costs. Not that I don't feel sympathy for it. I do. Only too well do I know how we humans in our times of helplessness, in times of weakness like that which overwhelmed you at your husband's funeral, will glorify the strength of anyone who is kind to us, in our weakness the fact that a comfort-talking brother is the henpecked victim of a jealous wife will quite disappear for us. We'll forget all we know about his actual weakness will ignore the weakness of a fellow-swimmer and grab at him anyway. Yet the truth remains that what has transformed a weak brother into a pillar of strength has been our greater (and temporary) weakness. So empty of all power have we been that the promise of his power sinks into our consciousness so deeply that all memories of his factual unreliability are wiped out.

What I'm saying, my dear fellow-human, is thus: You're still living in those helpless moments at your husband's funeral. But these are different moments as time has made you a different person. So it's probably true that this unreliable pillar of strength has been removed from you, not to destroy you, but to make your own strength accessible to you.

So move into these new moments. See the boy's principal. And stop this self-disparaging business of "nobody" to trust in this world.

There is you. There is you. There is you.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
and HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 10— Born today, you have a keen mind that dotes on the practical. A firm believer in that old adage, "Everything in its place," you are intolerant of any situation or circumstance that would upset your highly organized life. Not one to do things on the spur of the moment, you need time to think over every proposition and to decide for yourself whether it promises good or ill. You don't like being rushed and usually will refuse to make a move until you feel ready.

Highly intelligent and discriminatory, you know what is best for you and will brook no interference on that score. You will listen to what others have to say, but mostly out of politeness, for you have generally made up your own mind as to the way you will go long before you broach the subject to other people, even those closest to you. Such independence is admirable—so long as you've taken the time to be sure.

You put great store by past experience, but you prefer it to be experience of your own, something of importance, rather than that of others. You don't like making mistakes—can find a short-cut to success but if you must make them, you want to do it on your own. That way you have no one to blame for failure but yourself—but you also can take all the bows for any successes, which should be many.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Monday, December 11— SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—A day when you feel energetic and lethargic by turns.

Take advantage of periods of way to find trouble. Let others tackle their own problems as CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) best they can, while you stay out of it.

TO COOL THE OUTDOORS HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Roy Hoffheinz, president of the Astrodome Corp., who air-conditioned the 9½-acre, 710-foot-diameter Astrodome—is about to air-condition the outdoors as well.

Hoffheinz announced plans for a family entertainment center adjacent to the domed stadium. Called Astroworld, the 56-acre fun park will open next summer.

William J. Bailey, president of Carrier Air Conditioning Co. of Syracuse, N.Y., said that his firm will supply 2,000 tons of cooling capacity to air-condition all shaded outdoor areas, including many of the rides as well as the waiting areas, walkways, etc.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)— Take care that you don't carry experiments too far. This is a time when you could forfeit a long-standing friendship.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)— Lack of self-discipline may hamper your progress today. Make a genuine effort to take your emotions in hand early in the day.

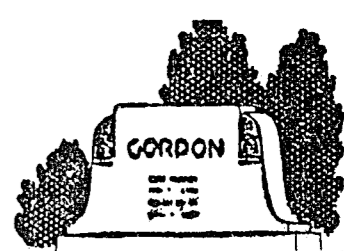

CANCER (June 22-July 23)— A rolling stone gathers no moss. Take this old adage to heart and act accordingly. Tie yourself to something of importance.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)— You can find a short-cut to success through the employment of a long-hidden talent. Don't allow assets to go to waste.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)— You should have plenty of energy left over at day's end for getting busy on a hobby that could bring you unexpected success.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)— Vary your activities according to your mood. You will gain little today by trying to work through a period of lethargy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)— Take care not to go out of your

Want Fresh Peace Try Most GOP Governors Agree On Viet Support

By JACK BELL
PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Most Republican governors agree the GOP must support the basic Vietnam war commitment in the 1968 election campaign while offering a fresh White House team dedicated to ending the fighting.

Opinions gathered by The Associated Press from GOP state executives who begin campaign planning sessions here Friday focused on the theme that President Johnson has become so locked in his position that only a new president can negotiate peace.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York will report at the conference on an in-depth study of potential campaign issues, including Vietnam. The governors, most of them moderates, hope it will form the basis of recommendations for specific platform plans.

Although they seemed in general agreement on issues, all but a few governors were refraining from committing themselves to any potential presidential nominee until next year's primaries show significant trends.

Of the 20 governors willing to participate in the AP canvass, 13 said they have no choice now for the nominee. Gov. John A. Love of Colorado, retiring chairman of the Republican Governors Association, seemed to sum up this group's views in saying: "I want a winner. I want to elect a Republican president."

Michigan Gov. George Romney's announced candidacy for the nomination appeared to have little impact on his colleagues.

Romney drew the support of only Govs. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, incoming chairman of the association, and New York's Rockefeller. Both of them previously had put themselves in his corner.

Rockefeller, who has said he is not a candidate and doesn't want to be president, had the open support of Govs. Tom McCall of Oregon, Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland and his brother, Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas. Another governor who asked that his name not be used, favored Rockefeller or Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois.

Five governors said they thought Rockefeller would rate the best chance to beat Johnson in the general election. One picked former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and one Romney. The rest said any of the leading candidates for the nomination could do the job.

Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington, expected to be named keynote speaker of the 1968 GOP convention, said the Republicans should emphasize that "the present administration has used up many of its alternatives and that a new administration could reopen all alternatives."

Organize Campus Jaycees At Local State Hospital

Despite the sudden storm, the chapter night program and banquet for the Campus Jaycees was held as scheduled on Saturday evening, December 2, at the V.F.W. club. The Campus Jaycees is an extension chapter of the Jacksonville Jaycees and is composed of staff and residents at Jacksonville State Hospital.

The project is under the auspices of the Volunteer Service Department at the institution.

SAIGON SHOWS PROGRESS

U.S. authorities in Saigon have come up with a new computerized system to maintain a continuing check on the political state of the countryside. The more than 12,000 hamlets throughout South Vietnam are regularly evaluated according to 18 criteria covering security, economic progress, and health, education and welfare efforts. Statistics available to date this year show a rise of 4 per cent in the "secure" population.

Nearly 40 per cent—2.8 million people—of South Vietnam's rural population lives in villages heavily "infected" by the Viet Cong, according to Saigon's computerized check on political temperature. Computer-processed data rates all hamlets in the country on a six-point scale:

- A—Slight Viet Cong activity; government programs functioning well.
- B—Security high; government programs operating but need improving.
- C—Government dominant, but population subject to Viet Cong harassment.
- D—Government presence, but Viet Cong taxation and terrorism continue.
- E—Little security; government activity entirely military.
- V—Viet Cong in control.

PUZZLING PROBLEM

Part 3: Stolen Rifle
Thad had been out hunting, and as he walks home through the woods he meets a stranger who appears to be a city man. The man offers Thad his new rifle in exchange for the boy's squirrels and rabbits. It seems like too good a swap, but the boy agrees when the man explains that it's worth it to him to be able to meet his friends with a good take from his hunting.

It hadn't occurred to Thad that anything shady or dishonest could possibly be connected with the deal.

The officer's hand shot out to flick the gun from Thad's grasp and examined it hurriedly.

"That figure," he said crisply. "This rifle was stolen over at Deer Creek Lodge . . . and you were seen over that way about an hour ago. Now get in the car. I'm taking you in."

Appalled and dismayed at the cruel blow fate had dealt him, Thad sat in stony silence beside the burly lawman as the car bounced along the bumpy road on the long ride into town. Clearly now, he saw the whole ugly picture in its true light and the thought left him with a knotty feeling at the pit of his stomach. He had bargained for a stolen gun. No wonder the "city feller" had sworn him to secrecy.

Keeps Promise
But even though he had been deceived cruelly, he had made a solemn vow to the "city feller" and he would keep it "no matter what happened."

Thad resolved with grim determination. To him, a promise made was a promise kept. It was a way of life in the hills.

A little while later the boy was left alone with his thoughts in a dingy cell at the back of the jail. He had been questioned repeatedly by the sheriff concerning his possession of the gun. But through it all he had remained steadfast and refused to answer his questions other than to say he had "bargained for it."

Thad wasn't aware that he had fallen asleep until a heavy hand on his shoulder aroused him and he looked up to find the sheriff standing over his bunk.

"You're in the clear, kid," he said with a wide grin. "The whole thing was a big mistake, so come along to the office and I'll give you your rifle."

The lawman handed Thad his cherished rifle and gave him a friendly slap on the back. "Seems that one of the city fellers at the lodge got his wires crossed a bit and set off a big hullabaloo over nothing," he went on to explain. "At least he was in something of a dither when he barged in here screaming that somebody had swiped his gun."

Thad started to say something but immediately thought better of it. He was still uncertain of the outcome of things and didn't dare risk a question at this moment.

Just A Mistake
The sheriff put him at ease with a warm smile and went on to say, "But he found his rifle later, of course, locked up in the trunk of his car where he'd put it in the first place. Funny thing about that feller you dealt with, though, kid. Trying to make everybody think he was a squirrel hunter when he couldn't even find his way back to the lodge by himself."

"Did he say how he got the squirrels?" Thad asked anxiously.

"He did when he got back and found out you were in trouble," the lawman said with a good-natured grin. "He broke loose in a hurry and told everything."

Thad was fairly bubbling over with joy as he left the sheriff's office with his new rifle tucked under his arm and struck out for home at a hurried pace. His experience of the day had been grueling . . . but through it all he had kept his word. That in itself seemed rewarding enough.

rows. It is difficult to describe their song, which begins with a clear and somewhat plaintive whistle similar to that of the better known White-throat. Then the White-crowned turns to its own husky wheezy song, plaintively appealing. Sometimes it sings dreamily and beautifully, saying, "chee chee, chid-chid, chee."

This morning its song seemed muted by the fog-drenched weeds and grasses. Then suddenly two sparrows flitted into a leafless shrub near us. We soon recognized them as an adult White-crowned and an immature. The handsome adult displayed its pearly-gray breast and its high puffy crown striped with bands of black and white; the immature looked less distinguished in its juvenile mottled buffy-brown coat.

These two White-crowned Sparrows were also singing but not the same songs. The youthful singer literally shouted its song; there were no plaintive notes reflected here. After each interval of its song the adult, perhaps its dad, sang his song, plaintive and dreamy. This song recital continued for some time, neither singer compromising with the other.

What was happening? Was the father teaching his son to sing? Was he sorrowfully pleading with the youth? Was he encouraging him to practice? We don't know, but we are pretty sure of one thing: the youth will later join the chorus of the White-crowned Sparrows' dreamy and plaintive songs.

FIRE PREVENTION

By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

(U.S. Air Force Photo) Last January 28, two Air Force technicians were killed in an oxygen fire in a space environment simulator at Brooks Air Force Base, Texas.

An intensive investigation followed then on October 17, a contract for eight personnel fire protection systems for these space simulators like the one shown above was awarded to Fenwal Incorporated, Ashland, Mass.

This is the first award of a contract for fire protection equipment of this type at Brooks AFB. It was based upon the extensive experience that Fenwal Incorporated has had in the development of advance protection techniques for aerospace and industrial fire and explosion suppression. Fenwal will be responsible for the design, manufacture, installation and testing of the systems.

The space simulators to be protected are used by the U.S. Air Force in its Aerospace Life Support research and development programs. The fire protection system will utilize ultraviolet flame detection and smoke detection to trigger the control circuits which will activate a water spray fog nozzles within each chamber or air lock. It will take less than 200 milliseconds from the fire alarm to the full flow of water. The nozzles are specially designed to cover all objects in the chamber with a uniform, fine spray, including hidden parts of test equipment.

William R. Baker, a Fenwal spokesman says, "The Fenwal system will afford optimum protection for personnel engaged in the operation of research project within the hypobaric (space simulator) chambers. Installation of the protection system components requires only a minimum of space and will not penalize the work area."

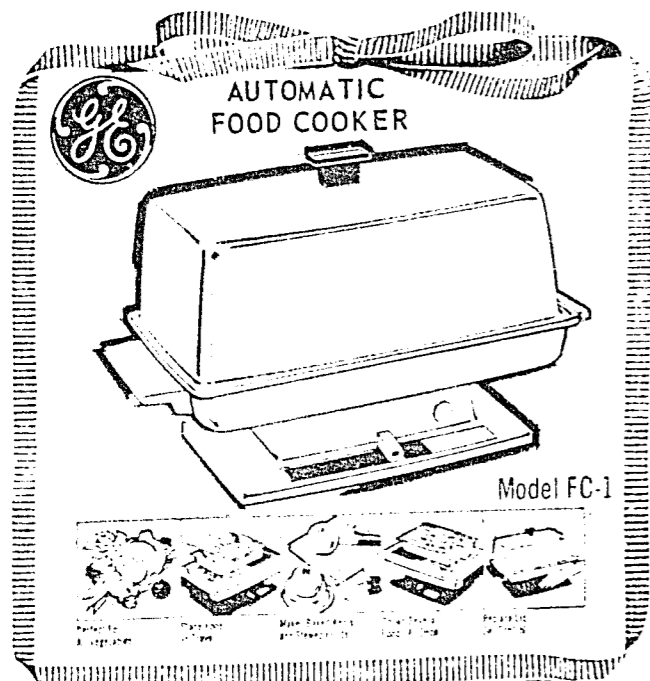

Space Differs
If the fire extinguishment system works as it is expected to it will make it possible for engineers to simulate conditions that occur in space without adding an additional hazard. Fire would be very unlikely in a weightless spacecraft. On earth, heat of a flame causes the carbon dioxide produced by the fire to expand becoming lighter so that it is pushed up and away by lighter fresh air. In weightlessness, however, the air would have no weight and so the carbon dioxide would hang around the flame quickly smothering it, even

Cards Can Retain Title Hopes Today

By The Associated Press
The St. Louis Cardinals plan a desperate last ditch stand against the Cleveland Browns Sunday in hopes of taking the Century Division race into the final week of the National Football League season.

A victory for the Browns would clinch the division crown and send them into a Dec. 24 playoff against the Dallas Cowboys in the Cotton Bowl for the Eastern Conference title.

Cleveland, 8-4, won their first meeting 20-16, Oct. 15 on two touchdown passes by Frank Ryan and three field goals by Lou Groza. The Cards, 6-5-1, snapped a losing streak at the expense of New Orleans last week while the Browns were eliminating the New York Giants.

Baltimore, 10-0-2, hopes to take another step toward the first unbeaten NFL season since the Chicago Bears of 1942 when they finish their home season against the New Orleans Saints, 2-10. The first meeting of the two clubs presents ex-Colts like quarterback Gary Cuozzo and linebackers Steve Stonebreaker, Ted Davis and Jackie Burkett a chance for revenge on their old mates.

Eagles at Dallas
Dallas, 8-4, already crowned champs of the Capitol Division, finishes its regular season home campaign against the erratic Philadelphia Eagles, 5-6-1, who bounced back from disaster at New York to tie Washington last week in a wild 35-35 game.

The Chicago Bears, 6-6, close out their home season against Minnesota, 3-7-2, in a clash of improving clubs. The Bears won 17-7 on Oct. 1 and come into this one off a 28-14 victory over San

Bradley Breezes To 101-71 Margin

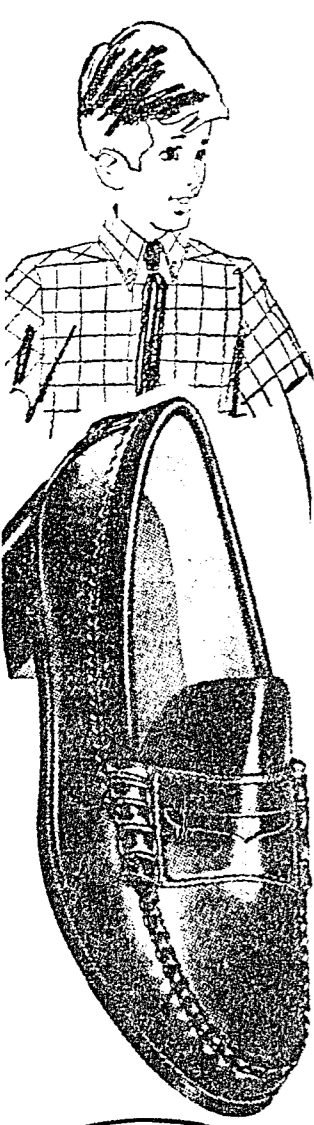

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Bradley's Braves rolled to their fourth straight basketball victory with a 101-71 triumph over Northern Michigan Saturday night.

Five Bradley players, led by Joe Allen's 29 points, scored in double figures. Al Smith picked up 21 and L. C. Brown 16.

Ted Rose paced Northern Michigan, which took its second loss against two successes, with 27 points and Mike Boyd added 17.

Bradley shot 53 per cent from the field to the visitors' 41 per cent.

Bradley led all the way and was in front 43-33 at the half. The Braves then hit five straight baskets for a 20-point lead and boosted their advantage to 34 points with five minutes to play.

Scratch Classic Bowling League In Seventh Year

Since 1961 when the Three Man Scratch Classic bowling league was organized only one team has been league champions two consecutive years. The team was sponsored by Kenneth Price Masonry. They won the league title in 1962-63 and 1963-64.

There have been as many as eighteen teams down to the present 12 teams. Only three teams that bowled the first year are still sponsored by the same sponsors. They are Besco, Inc., sponsored by Wally Baptist; Midland Electric, sponsored by Bob Jameson; and the Bowling Center, sponsored by Al Miller. These sponsors are in most bowling leagues pay a team's entry fee in a league. This ranges from $15.00 up to $29.75 per team. Wally Baptist was the first president of this league.

The first three years the league bowled 156 games but in the 1964-65 season the league dropped to the present 140 games. The highest team victories were by the 1961-62 Bowling Center team who won 111-1 games and under the 140 game schedule the 1964-65 Hilltoppers hold the record of 96 wins. The highest team series is also held by the 1961-62 Bowling Center team, this being a 2-437 for four team games. The highest team game is shared by the 1961-62 Bowling Center team and the 1963-64 Hilltoppers. Both bowled 671.

Alan Smith holds the high four game series with a 924, bowled in 1962-63. The high single game is a 288 rolled by George Manker in 1963-64.

The league's high individual average leader has never been under 191 in six years. This is an outstanding performance and a tribute to the caliber of bowlers who bowl in Jacksonville's only scratch league.

Every year since this league was started the trophy for high individual average for the entire city of Jacksonville has been the top bowler in the Three Man Scratch Classic Bowling League. Quite a record!

Those who have bowled over the 190 average in this league are George Manker with a 191 in 1961-62, 193 in 1964-65, 191 in 1965-66, 194 in 1966-67; Alan Smith with 192 in 1962-63; Russell Zulauf with 192 in 1963-64; Steve Fassero with 190 in 1961-62; and Gerald Lacey with 193 in 1966-67.

Buffalo Humbles Boston, 44-16, On Pass Thefts

BOSTON (AP) — Cornerback Tom Janik intercepted three passes and linebacker Marth Schottenheimer picked off a pair, all setting up scores as the Buffalo Bills humbled Boston 44-16 Saturday in the Patriots' 1967 American Football League home finale.

Janik returned one interception 38 yards for a touchdown in the second period while Schottenheimer raced 45 yards with an aerial theft in the third quarter.

The Bills, still smarting from a 23-0 loss at the hands of Boston, their first shutout in history in Buffalo earlier this year, stunned the Patriots by grabbing a 28-0 lead in the first half.

The Patriots finally got on the scoreboard with the help of a pass interception late in the opening half.

Schottenheimer, filling in at middle linebacker for John Travey, who missed his first game since 1962, set the tempo when he intercepted a Don Trull pass and returned from the Boston 41 to the eight on the game's sixth play.

On the next play, Jack Kemp passed to Keith Lincoln for the first touchdown. The Bills added another first period touchdown, Wray Carlton going over from the five to cap a 57-yard drive.

Kemp ran three yards for a touchdown before Janik picked off a Trull pass for his scoring jaunt.

Trull swept right end on a keeper for seven yards and Boston's first touchdown.

The Patriots collected a safety as Kemp was dropped in the end zone by Jim Hunt at the outset of the third quarter but Schottenheimer came up with his second interception to kill Boston's final hopes.

Sonny Jurgensen takes his Washington, 4-5-3, aerial circus to Pittsburgh, 3-8-1, with an NFL record of 260 completions to his credit and the one-two-three receivers in the league—Charley Taylor, Jerry Smith and Bobby Mitchell—anxious to grab more passes.

Something has to give when San Francisco, 5-7, plays at Atlanta, 1-10-1. The 49ers have lost six straight after a fine start and the Falcons have dropped five in a row since their lone victory over the Vikings.

Hayes, Houston Notch 54-46 Win Over Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Elvin Hayes scored 17 of his total 25 points in the second half Saturday to lead the second-ranked Houston Cougars to a 54-46 basketball victory over Illinois.

Houston, boosting its record to 4-0, took a 25-18 halftime lead but the Illini closed in 39-37 as rookie Mike Price hit 11 points in a six-minute span.

Then Hayes uncorked seven quick points to head the Cougars to a 47-37 margin with four minutes remaining and Illinois never seriously challenged.

Illinois' tough man-to-man defense forced Houston to make 20 turnovers. The Cougars used a zone defense. Price topped Illinois' scoring with 15 points and Randy Crews added 10. Second high for Houston was Ken Spain with 10 points.

Cards' Bakken Gets Mind Off Field Pressure

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jim Bakken has no trouble concentrating on a field goal attempt in a clutch situation; his secret is to be oblivious to what's happening. "You have to concentrate on a clutch field goal but you have to be oblivious to what's going on," the articulate Bakken pointed out. "You just think about the mechanics in a clutch situation, or in any field goal. "You can't let yourself kick out of memory because you now how important it is. It's easier to kick in a clutch game because everybody is working hard."

Jim, who has 105 points so far this year, will probably have a chance to work on his clutch game kicking when the Cardinals host the Cleveland Browns on Sunday. St. Louis, 6-5-1, must beat the Browns, 8-4, to have a chance at the National Football League's Century Division title.

The blond Bakken says the worst time for a kicker in a clutch game is the time between field goal attempts. "You can be your own worst enemy because there's so much time to think about why you missed and what you did wrong and worry about your mechanics."

Jim, 27, a sixth-year pro from Wisconsin, likes to quote a remark made by New York Giants' head coach Allie Sherman.

"Sometimes it's not how many you make, but when you make them," Bakken quoted. "A field goal can put you ahead by six instead of three, and that can change the other team's whole game plan."

Bakken says that what Sherman is talking about boils down to consistency. He says his ultimate goal is to match Cleveland kicker Lou Groza's league mark for percentage of field goals made.

"I think it's 23 of 26 attempts," Bakken said. "I think that is the most amazing thing. Obviously he was having a consistent year."

The 6-foot Bakken sets a high standard for himself when it comes to distance of his field goals.

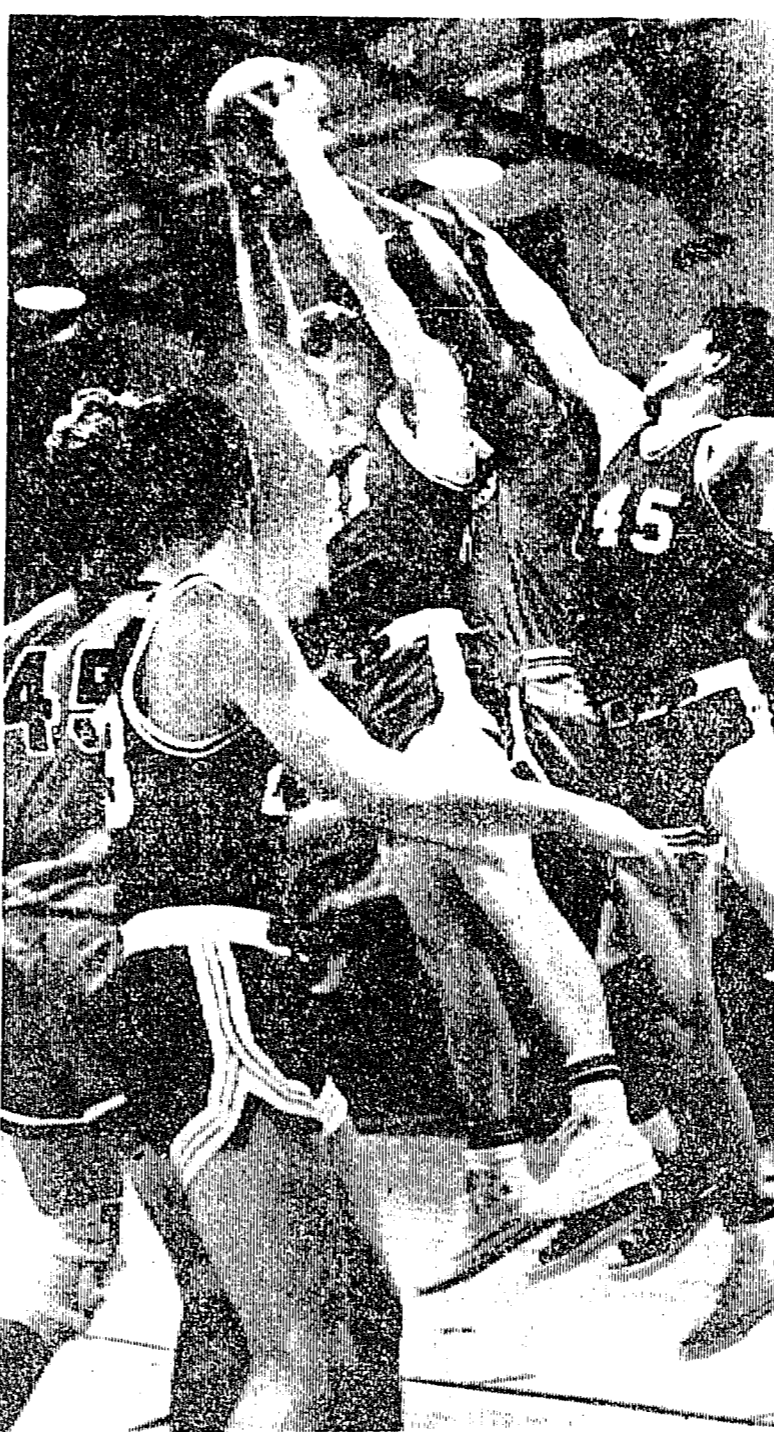

"Any inside the 40 yard line you should make 100 per cent. Outside the 40 you should hit 50 per cent. I've had a lot of good chances inside the 40 this year."

Jim, who is closing in on his cardinal scoring record of 115 points, had nine good field goal chances in Pittsburgh earlier this year. He converted seven for a league record.

FIND DUCK HUNTERS
STREATOR, Ill. (AP)—The bodies of two Chicago area duck hunters, missing since Sunday, were found by searching crews Saturday in the backwaters of the Illinois River near Sparland.

The victims were Roth Mayfield, 4, and Donald Ghemp, 44, both of Glen Clyin.

The bodies were found about 50 yards from the spot where the outboard motor of their boat was found earlier. Police theorized they attempted to swim ashore after their boat overturned but failed to make it.

CONCENTRATED: Balyki's Doug Nall is the winner as he grabs down this rebound in the middle of a pack of players Saturday night. In the action also are Ron Penn of ISD and George McDaniel (45). ISD notched a 51-48 overtime triumph over the Thunderbirds from Bath-Lynchburg-Kilbourne Saturday evening.

Houston, Oakland In AFL Feature

By the Associated Press
Houston's grind-it-out offense relies on the churning legs of Woodie Campbell and Hoyle Granger but the Oilers haven't churned against anything quite like the Oakland Raiders yet.

Tied with New York for the American Football League's Eastern Division lead at 7-3-1, Houston faces Western leader Oakland, 10-1, and the AFL's toughest defense in a key game for both teams Sunday.

In Sunday's other AFL games, San Diego plays at Miami and Kansas City is at New York.

Campbell, a rookie from Northwestern, gained 141 yards in 18 carries, and Granger, a second year pro from Mississippi State, pounded out 111 in 25 attempts as the Oilers nipped Miami 17-14 and caught New York in the Eastern race last Sunday.

But the Dolphins' defense isn't nearly as frightening as Oakland's 11 Angry Men. The Raiders were stung for 21 points by San Diego in the first half last Sunday but blanked the Chargers after that and won 41-21.

The Chiefs, 7-5 and eliminated in the Western race, hope to dampen New York's Eastern hopes. They couldn't get much damper than they were last Sunday when the Jets were beaten in a rainstorm by Denver 33-24.

Kansas City dropped Buffalo 23-13 a week ago and flanker Otis Taylor caught six Len Dawson passes to move into a tie with Oakland's Hewitt Dixon for the lead in receptions at 55.

San Diego, 8-2-1 and 12 games back of Oakland with only three games to play, must beat the Raiders.

Vanderbilt Tips N. Carolina 39-76

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Eight-ranked Vanderbilt, sparked in the second half by the rebounding and fast break playmaking of Bob Warren, defeated fifth ranked North Carolina 39-76 in an intersectional basketball game Saturday night.

All five Vandy starters scored in double figures with Warren, Tom Hagan and Kenny Campbell getting 18 each. Carolina's Larry Miller, who got off only four shots in the first half, finished with 25 points.

North Carolina hit 53.9 per cent of its field goal shots and Vandy 51.6 per cent, but the Commodores sank 19 of 21 foul shots in the second half, while the Tarheels missed 8 of 16 during the same period.

The victory gives Vandy a 3-0 record and leaves North Carolina 2-1.

Wildcats Surprise Louisville, 88-83

CHICAGO (AP) — Unheralded Northwestern, led by three sophomores, upset third-ranked Louisville Saturday night 88-83 with a stirring second half drive in the first game of a Chicago Stadium basketball doubleheader.

Loyola of Chicago met fourth-ranked Kansas in the second game.

Southeast Hands Rushville 75-63 Loss Saturday

SPRINGFIELD — Springfield Southeast combined Rushville turnovers and a five-basket spurt in the second period to turn back the Rockets, here Saturday night, 75-63.

Southeast, holding a slim two-point lead 25-23 with a little over four minutes to play, hit five straight baskets as Rushville committed numerous floor mistakes. Southeast led 35-23 and was never threatened seriously again.

The Rockets committed 16 turnovers to seven for Springfield in the game.

Southeast held a 23-point lead late in the fourth period, but Rushville scored the last 11 points in the game.

Mike Crisp was high for Springfield with 17 points. Mark Reynolds and Rick Patterson paced the Rockets with 18 and 17 points.

Rushville out rebounded Springfield 30-22, but Southeast hit 42.7 per cent from the floor to the Rockets' 35.1 per cent.

The Rockets missed two of 13 free throws, while Southeast could only manage 50 per cent of their 22 attempts.

Rushville is now 2-2; Springfield is 2-1.

Waverly High will stage its 17th Annual Holiday tourney this month. Waverly started with eight teams in 1951, including Athens, Nokomis, Girard, Viraden, Kincaid, Pawnee, Northwestern (Palmyra) and Waverly. In 1959 sixteen teams were entered for the first time with new teams playing including Franklin, Tri-City (Buffalo), Witt, Rend, Routt, Balyki (Bath), Petersburg and Worden. Coach Rod Richardson will take his Canton High Little Giants to the strong Carbondale Holiday tourney this month. In 1959 he took Bradley High to the Pontiac High Holiday tourney. In 1961 he took Bradley to Paris tourney and in 1963 he took his Bradley five to the Kankakee High Holiday tourney. This is his third trip to Carbondale tourney with the Canton teams. His Bradley High team of 1963-64 went to the State tourney losing to Glenbard East in the Super-Semifinal.

Geneseo High school wants a football opponent for November 3 and Western (Macomb) High has four open dates to fill for the football chart for next season. Warsaw, LaHarpe, Carthage and Hamilton have dropped out of the LaMoine conference in football competition leaving Western High with the four open dates.

Greenfield knocked Carrollton out of the football championship the past season and back in 1939. Roundhouse High was beaten by White Hall 13-0 in the final game of the season giving the title to Greenfield's Tigers coached by Raymond Raines. Roundhouse High mentor that year was the late Foster Keagle while White Hall was coached by Bill Knoop. Crimsons Cop First Win, 67-49

Mounts, Esslinger Hit For 55 Points

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Jacksonville ripped off the first nine points of the third period to break open a tight contest enroute to 67-49 victory over Jerseyville that turned into a rout at the finish, at the JHS Bowl Friday evening.

JHS's two big men, Duane Mounts and Bob Esslinger, earned their first victory in three starts and the smaller Jerseyville club suffered its first defeat in five starts.

Mounts, a 6-4 junior who looks up again late in the frame to off-set buckets by Ron Blackorby and the hosts led 31-27 at halftime.

Jacksonville outbounded the visitors 46-24, 20-12 on the offensive retrieves.

The final score was far from indicated until the third period burst, as Jacksonville again was unable to handle a full court press in the early going and fell eight points behind in the first four minutes.

After only a four-point half-time lead, the Crimsons got life when guards Ed Winger and Rick Hatcher began picking up assists to give Mounts and Esslinger crisp shots. Jerseyville had trouble finding the range after intermission, managing only two field goals in the third period and shooting an icy 27 percent in the second half.

East Pike Nips

In Pike County

PLEASANT HILL — Once-defeated East Pike survived a late Pleasant Hill rally to notch a slim 42-41 Pike County Conference triumph, here Friday evening.

After leading 11-5 and 20-15 at the first two stops, East Pike was not insured of victory until John Franklin's short shot with seven seconds left missed.

Greg Hatcher with 13 and Gale Bess with 12 paced the losers in the cold-shooting contest, while Steve Winchell and Ken Hart struck for 11 apiece for the losers.

East Pike is now 4-1 on the year, while Pleasant Hill suffered its first loss in two games.

PITTSFIELD — A 54' shooting night and four players in double figures propelled undefeated Pittsfield to an easy 82-64 non-conference breeze over Christian Brothers of Quincy here Friday evening.

The Saukees, now 4-0, outbounded the visitors 32-24 in addition to their red-hot shooting, many shots of which came from criss off steals via the Pittsfield press.

Pittsfield led 22-12 and 43-29 at the first two breaks, and cruised the final two chapters, as ten players hit the scoring column. Bill Dural led the way with 18 points, followed by Fred Grote with 17 and Marty Booth with 13.

UTAH COACH RESIGNS
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Mike Giddings, under criticism much of the season, resigned Friday as head football coach at the University of Utah.

Giddings submitted his resignation only hours after the university's athletic board had accepted the resignations of five assistant coaches.

HEMME IN: Jacksonville's Gerry McKean (32) is hemmed in by Jim Lynn of Jerseyville and teammate Duane Mounts while moving against the Panther press. The Crimsons committed 20 turnovers against the Jerseyville press, but still rolled to a 67-49 victory Friday.

Drake Smothers Blueboys 114-61

DES MOINES — Drake University set a new scoring record here, Friday night, with a 114-61 victory over Illinois College.

The undefeated Bulldogs had 13 men score, and four of those scored in double figures, as they surpassed their previous high total of 111.

The Blueboys, following a brief minute of glory, were never able to cope with the strong Drake attack. IC Coach Bill Merris also substituted freely to give members of the Blueboys experience.

Illinois College's 6'3" forward Charlie Martin cleanly out jumped Drake's 6'8" center Gary Odom for the opening tip, but after that the game progressed further out of reach.

Martin led all scorers in the game with 21 points, and he hauled in 12 rebounds to pace IC. He was the only Blueboy to score in double figures.

The Bulldogs were led by the 18 points of 5'11" guard Don Draper. Al Williams, 6'5" forward, Willy McCarter, 6'3" guard and Willy Wise, 6'5" forward scored 17, 16 and 14 points respectively.

Odom, Drake's big man, was held to six points by Dennis Baker, 6'3" freshman for Illinois College. McCarter was the leading scorer for the Blueboys coming into the game with a 22.4 average.

Drake held five inches per man on the starting five, and the Bulldogs' starters hit 70 per cent from the floor in the first nine minutes of play, mostly on outside shots.

Illinois College, experiencing another cool night from the field, was out rebounded 74-31. The Blueboys hit on 26 of 78 shots for 33.3 per cent, while Drake made 51 of 102 shots for 50 per cent.

IC hit 60 per cent from the foul line, while Drake hit 57 per cent.

Patterson's 24 Pace Rushville To 71-57 Margin

MACOMB — Rick Patterson poured in 24 points to pace Rushville to a 71-57 decision over Macomb here Friday night.

The Rockets, now 2-1, received a 15-point effort from Joe Reische.

Tony Houston and Randy Downey led the Bombers with 17 and 16 points.

Rushville grabbed an early lead and never fell behind, although Macomb closed the lead to three points at the end of the third period.

Trojans Rip ISD 59-39 For 1st Win

CHAPIN — Triopia scored its initial victory of the year at the expense of ISD, 59-39, here Friday evening.

This was the opening PMSC game for both teams.

The Trojans grabbed an early lead and used an ISD, two-point second period to practically ice the game then.

Triopia held a 27-8 halftime lead and outscored the losers by one in the second half. Dennis Branner led all scorers with 21 points.

Jim Six added 16 points to the Triopia cause. The Trojans are now 1-2.

Beban Tried Harder And Became Top Man

By TOMMY THOMAS
NEA Sports Writer

UCLA may not be No. 1 but Gary Beban certainly is.

The All-American quarterback, a native of Redwood City, Calif., has been named the outstanding college football player of 1967 and the recipient of the first annual NEA-NCAA Player of the Year trophy.

Following the Army-Navy game on Dec. 2, NEA Sports Editor Murray Olderman presented Beban with the trophy.

Beban displayed the same poise on camera he showed while leading the Bruins to victory in 24 of his 31 varsity games. He first gained national acclaim when UCLA upset Mike Garrett and Southern California to gain the Rose Bowl berth his sophomore year.

Another upset followed, this time over national champion Michigan State on New Year's Day of 1966. Beban stunned the Spartans by guiding the Uclans to two quick touchdowns that stood up for a 14-12 win. He says that was his biggest thrill in college football.

"The whole college career was quite an experience," he says, "that was climaxed by the USC game this year. We came within one point of winning the national championship so I feel we've nothing to be ashamed of."

5 Pass Thefts Carry Miami To 20-13 Margin

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miami's exciting defenders stole five of Larry Rentz's passes, pounced on two fumbles and totally dominated the game as the Hurricanes beat Florida 20-13 in Saturday's college football television show.

Line backer Ken Corbin carried two of Rentz's passes back 80 and 45 yards for touchdowns. And the offense had to travel only two yards for a third score after little defensive back Jimmy Dye returned a punt 70 yards.

Besides racking up the scores, the defenders broke up several long drives led by the slippery Rentz with interceptions, fumble recoveries and just plain refusal to yield to a rushing attack when the yardage really counted. Not until the last period, with Harmon Wages taking over for Rentz, did the Gators go in on a 37-yard pass from Wages to Guy McHenry.

With 1:40 to go, a crucial penalty enabled the Gators to salvage a second touchdown. A fourth down Gator pass was broken up, but an interference penalty gave Florida a first down at the one, from where Larry Smith scored.

Hurricane warning flags flew for Rentz from the first play of the game, when he aimed a long one for his receiver, Richard Trapp, and saw Dye leap up to steal it away at midfield.

Later, hit hard as he went for a sideline pass, Trapp went out with broken ribs.

Miami ran only four offensive plays in the first quarter, and not until eight minutes were gone in the second did the Hurricanes get a first down—on a 30-yard run by Vince Opalsky.

Five times, when Miami appeared about to go on the move, charging Gators broke through to dump quarterback David Olin for long losses.

Indiana's Hoosiers hit their shots at the fourth best percentage in the school's basketball history Saturday afternoon in drubbing Ohio University 39-63.

In registering their third straight victory of the campaign, the Hoosiers sank 33 of 59 field shots, a .559 clip. Their best ever was .663 against Ohio State in 1959.

Earl Schneider led the assault with 26 points. Vern Payne hit 15 and Bill DeHeer 15.

Gerald McKee topped Ohio U. scoring with 20 points and 6-10-7 Fred Cluff chipped in with 15, as the visitors cashed 24 of 55 shots from the field.

Indiana took the lead to stay at 16-15 with 13:08 to go in the first half and led at the 37:31 mark.

Tarkenton Admits; 'I'm A Scrambler'

By FRAN TARKENTON
(NEA) — Despite anything I may have said to the contrary, there is a "scramble" in pro football.

I do scramble.

As a matter of fact, almost every quarterback in professional football has scrambled at one time or another.

The scramble, to define it, is the reaction of an athlete — in this case, the quarterback — to a situation in which 1) there has been a breakdown in the pass protection, or 2) a breakdown in the pass pattern, the more likely occurrence.

When I go back to set up for a quick pass, and it isn't there — the defensive back jams him and knocks him down, or the linebacker gets a good drop and stands in the passing lane — when I see this, I scramble most of the time.

The way or the direction in which a quarterback scrambles is strictly instinctive. You then become a football player, reacting to the situation as it develops, not consciously thinking of your moves, but executing them because they're natural.

Example No. 1:

We're playing the Philadelphia Eagles, and we're in a drive that reaches around their 30-yard line. I call a quick slant pass to Homer Jones, our split end. The actual play is an "X-slant."

As we come up to the line of scrimmage, I see their weak side linebacker has come inside their defensive end. Good. That leaves Homer an alley, but I have to hit him quickly within three or four steps or their linebacker will be in the passing plane and in position to intercept. Furthermore, their weak side safety, Joe Scarpati, is favoring Homer's side.

The way the play develops, when I dropped back to pass, I saw Homer running a deeper slant than I wanted. So immediately I knew the pattern wasn't there and had to give myself an alternate route, to pass or to run the ball. I just couldn't stay in my six-or-seven-yard drop waiting for Homer.

Carrollton Nips Birds By 53-50 In IVC Action

PIASA — The Hawks of Carrollton, behind a scoring trio of Ron Stuart, Steve Howard, and Tim Moulton, sneaked by the Southwestern Birds 53-50 here Friday night in an Illinois Valley Conference game.

The Birds opened with a seven-point first stanza lead, but lost it to a 21-point Carrollton second period. The big boy, Moulton, netted eight points of his total in that period. Southwestern trailed all through the second half.

Carrollton played a much more aggressive ball game, resulting in 20 fouls, while Southwestern was charged with only eight. Southwestern capitalized on this difference in violations to sink 14 free shots. They missed seven for a 66.7 percentage, while Carrollton dumped seven of 14 for 50 per cent.

Stuart led the Hawk's scoring with 15 points, followed by Howard and Moulton, with 14 and 12, respectively. Paul Cooper of the Birds was high for the game with 17.

CLEVELAND FORCED TO DUERT FLIGHT

CHICAGO (AP) — The Cleveland Browns football team, unable to land in St. Louis because of heavy fog, was diverted to Chicago Saturday evening.

The Browns, who are hoping to clinch the Century Division of the National Football League's Eastern Conference against the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday, chartered four buses for St. Louis.

The team then departed from O'Hare International Airport at 6 p.m. CST, for the bus run which at best takes 5 hours and 35 minutes.

However, an official of the Browns party indicated the team might stop in Springfield, Ill., to eat. If so, the Browns would not be expected to arrive in St. Louis any earlier than 1 a.m. CST Sunday.

Strong Buyer Support Prompts Price Rise On Board Of Trade

By ED DE MOCH
AP Business Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Strong buyer support, influenced by an increase in exports and some changeable weather, helped set in motion a near-general price advance of commodities on the Chicago Board of Trade last week.

It was the first time since early June, when Israel invaded the Arab countries, that prices moved together in one direction.

When trade closed Friday, wheat futures were $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ cents a bushel higher than a week earlier, December 1.45 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1.46 $\frac{1}{2}$; corn was $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ cents higher, December 1.15 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1.16 $\frac{1}{2}$; soybeans were $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ cents higher, December 73 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 74 $\frac{1}{2}$; rye was 1 to 2 cents higher, December 1.15 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1.16 $\frac{1}{2}$; and soybeans were $\frac{1}{2}$ cent lower (in one contract) to 1 cent higher, January 2.66 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 2.67 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Soybean oil futures, which have been declining almost steadily for several weeks, advanced 4 to 10 points December 8.51, while soybean meal moved ahead 5 to 60 points, December 72.40.

Choice steers closed 60 cents a hundredweight lower to 23 cents higher, December 25.50.

Trade was not necessarily active, and fluctuations had little smooth movement, gyrating, instead, in nervous and sporadic outbursts in either direction.

Wheat and corn futures had a range of 2 to 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ cents, while oats and soybeans ranged over about 1 to 2 cents, and rye departed from its usual pattern and ranged over $\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 cents. Soybean oil moved with a span of 15 to 25 points while meal had a range of 75 to 125 points and choice steers ranged between 15 and 50 cents per hundredweight.

LBJ Urges Labor, Industry 'Hold Line' On Wages, Prices

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With steel price increases spreading, President Johnson this past week called on industry and labor to hold the line on prices and wages.

He didn't mention the steelmakers specifically, but it seemed obvious that their latest round of selective price increases had prompted his appeal.

U.S. Steel Corp., the No. 1 producer, started the price ball rolling last Friday with a $5-a-ton increase on cold-rolled sheet, which is used heavily in the manufacture of automobiles and appliances.

Other major producers went along. Some later announced boosts of $5 a ton on galvanized and aluminum coated sheets.

Johnson made his appeal for restraint on price and wage increases at a meeting of the Business Council, an organization of top business executives who advise him on the economy.

"I am urging business to refrain from avoidable price increases and to intensify its competitive efforts," he said.

"I intend to urge labor to restrain its demands for excessive wage increases."

The President said further: "If strong labor unions insist on a high wage rise twice the nationwide increase in output per man hour—even where there is no real labor shortage—we are bound to have rising prices.

"If members of an industry attempt to raise prices and profit margins—even when they clearly have excess capacity—we are bound to have rising prices."

"Nobody benefits from a wages-price spiral."

Prices went up this past week on other fronts.

Higbie Manufacturing Co. and Bundy Corp., major makers of metal tubing for the automotive and appliance industries, raised their prices by 3.5 to 5.5 per cent.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., the nation's largest glassmaker, announced a 6 per cent across the board increase on its sheet glass prices.

The three companies said the raises were due to higher costs of labor and materials.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department reported that new factory orders increased during October for the first time in four months and that the backlog of unfilled orders reached a record $81.6 billion.

New orders rose 0.5 of 1 per cent to $45.5 billion while shipments declined to $44.4 billion, thus adding $1.1 billion to the backlog.

A news blackout was clamped on negotiations between the United Auto Workers Union and General Motors. This indicated the start of serious bargaining against a Dec. 14 target date for reaching a national agreement.

Steel production last week dipped 0.1 per cent to 2,703,000 tons from 2,707,000 tons the previous week.

Traditional Year-End Rally Rolling Along As Market Booms

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market volume soared to near-record levels last week as the market posted its fifth straight weekly advance.

Wall Street seemed to be rolling up its sleeves and flexing its muscles for what brokers call the "traditional year-end rally." The market, though working higher every week, has not been running away with itself.

On average, the market has moved up sedately. Some of the more favored issues have done better than the market as a whole.

The heavy trading was impressive. Volume was 59,832,720 shares compared with 51,100,620 the previous week. It was the greatest turnover since the record 60.8 million shares traded in the week ended last Aug. 5.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 3.09 to 877.25. This was only a moderate gain.

The Dow industrials on Wednesday finally managed to crunch through the tough area of overhead resistance between 865 and 890. Theoretically, this signaled a further advance to the equally tough 900 line. But the advance petered out, some thought temporarily.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks last week rose 2.1 to 317.2. Of 1,639 issues traded, 657 fell and 876 rose.

Of 1,639 issues traded, 657 fell and 876 rose.

The week was noteworthy because of records for "breadth of market" — the total number of issues traded, were broken on Monday with 1,512 and again on Tuesday, with 1,523.

Some of the oldest favorites were among the best performers. Outstanding among them was IBM which made a series of new highs and ended the week with a gain of 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ at 644 $\frac{1}{2}$.

American Telephone, reacting to the continual rise in interest rates, which has especially depressed utilities, and also showing further discouragement at the government investigation of its rate structure, sold below \$50 a share for the first time since 1966. It lost $\frac{1}{2}$ at 49 $\frac{3}{4}$ on the week.

Fairchild Camera sank 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 92; but Avco rose 12 points to 59 $\frac{1}{2}$. SCM 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 58 $\frac{1}{2}$. United Engineering & Foundry 7 $\frac{3}{4}$ to 28 $\frac{1}{2}$ and Spartan Industries 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ to 25.

The five most active issues last week on the New York Stock Exchange included Brunswick, up 1 at 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1,095.600 shares; Benguet, up 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ at 7 $\frac{1}{2}$; McDonnell Douglas, up 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ at 55 $\frac{1}{2}$ and American Photocopy, up $\frac{1}{4}$ at 12 $\frac{1}{4}$.

rated double-A and nonrefundable for five years, which were reoffered to yield 6.90 per cent. This is the highest on record for securities with such a high rating and long protection against refunding.

The Pacific Gas bonds were sold at an annual net interest cost of 6.92 per cent, highest in the history of electric utilities.

Government bonds closed with their largest net weekly advance since mid-July, said a Wall Street investment firm. The municipal bond market closed about unchanged for the week.

Beardstown School Expansion Program Rejected By Voters

By VIRGIL REITHER
BEARDSTOWN — An $810,000 proposal for the expansion of the Beardstown school system was defeated by voters Saturday in a referendum held at the high school.

According to the results, 282 voters were present at the referendum, with 158 voting "no" and 124 voting "yes." There were 20 spoiled ballots.

The expansion, as proposed by the Beardstown Board of Education, would have included the building of a new elementary school, a new high school, and a new vocational school, as well as the renovation of existing schools and the improvement of high school facilities.

Sheriff Reports 98 Per Cent Of Scott Taxes Paid

By Naomi Lawson
Winchester Correspondent
Telephone 742-3190

WINCHESTER — Scott County Sheriff Lloyd Martin is reporting that 98 per cent of the tax levy for 1967 has been paid. A total of $1,000,000 has been collected, he said.

According to the report, schools receive the largest percent of the tax dollar, followed by the county, road districts, townships, and the North Scott Fire District.

Sheriff Martin reports that 47 prisoners were housed at the Scott County Jail and were fed at a cost of $5,330 during the year. 31 summons and 29 warrants were served and 120 persons were called for jury duty.

Junior College
An information meeting concerning the proposed junior college district was held Thursday evening at Shert Hall.

Three Pike County men, Don Sloan, Ray Peters and Dr. Thomas Bunting joined Dick Coultras in conducting the meeting.

An election will be held in late January to decide the issue.

Christmas Meeting
St. Mark's Altar Society will meet at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Fletcher Cafe.

The hostesses are Mrs. Emerson Grey and Mrs. James McCabe. The program chairman will be Mrs. Lucy Welch. Reservations may be made with the hostesses through Wednesday.

Mission Meets
The Afternoon Mission Group of the First Baptist church met Thursday afternoon at the church.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Melvin Schnake, Mrs. Hays Wiltshire and Mrs. Norbert Hutchens, who gave the history of several Christmas carols. They also led in the singing of holiday songs, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Elsie Thomas. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Burl Merriman, Mrs. Elsie Thomas, Mrs. Grace Claywell, Mrs. Everett Tankersley and Mrs. William Boston.

COLLEGE STUDENT HELD IN THEFT

Authorities identified the youth as Leo Nighobossian of Granite City, a student at MacMurray college, who was held in custody in lieu of $100 bond. He was apprehended about 1:30 p.m. in connection with the theft of a $6.50 bottle of men's cologne.

N. MAIN, DOUGLAS MISHAP
Two vehicles were damaged in an accident after noon Saturday at the intersection of Douglas and North Main streets.

According to city police, a car driven by Margaret M. Beeles, 251 Harding Avenue, stopped for the stop sign and was proceeding across north Main when it was struck by a car driven by Margaret E. Walker, route three, Jacksonville. Wet pavements were listed as the cause of the accident.

Mental Health Code Discussion Set For Tuesday

Attorney Joan Matlaw, legal advisor for the Department of Mental Health, will discuss important changes in the Mental Health Code of Illinois at a special community hospital meeting Tuesday in Jacksonville.

The meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m. Dec. 12, at the nursing education building at Jacksonville State Hospital. Some 250 people from throughout the Illinois area served by the state hospital will be on hand to hear the changes in the mental health code.

Among those who have been invited to attend the meeting are state's attorneys, judges, caseworkers and other community leaders from the area served by the hospital.

Dr. Steve Pratt, superintendent of the hospital will open the meeting and then introduce Mrs. Matlaw. She will present a prepared talk that lasts about one hour. Following a coffee break, the questions from the audience and hospital staff will then be discussed and answered.

In 1966, a committee was formed composed of representatives of the judiciary, licensed private hospitals, the American Civil Liberties Union and the Mental Health Department to make a study of and recommend changes in the present mental health code. Senate Bill 1349, passed earlier this year, represents the recommendations of the committee.

The 1967 mental health code continues the trend begun with the 1962 code toward simplifying and easing the admission process, while at the same time increasing civil rights protection for patients.

2 CARS INVOLVED IN 36-54 ACCIDENT

Five persons escaped injuries in a two-car accident on U.S. 36-54 one mile north of Winchester about 9:15 a.m. Saturday.

Investigating state police stated that a unit, driven by Raymond Hance, 22, of Beardstown, slowed to avoid striking an oncoming car passing another unit.

Hance's vehicle was struck from the rear by a car driven by Sharolynn J. Linebeck, 28, of Springfield.

Other occupants of the two vehicles were unharmed also.

VENDING MACHINE LOOTED
City police Saturday night reported the theft of coins from a drink machine at John and Niecey's Skelly service station, West College and South Church streets.

Officers said that the vending machine was broken into and changed, the amount of which was not immediately known, taken.

The incident was reported to police headquarters at 4:53 p.m.

PLANTATION CLUB

open Sunday 4 p.m. to 1 a.m. Chicken special this week 1.75, children's portion 1.25.

Reither On Beardstown

By Virgil Reither
BEARDSTOWN — The November-December issue of Link member magazine for Oscar Moyer and company has been issued as a special to record some of the history of the open house in Beardstown for the new $5 million plant.

It is filled with pictures and stories about the grand opening and its theme is: "We're Home Folks Now." It emphasizes the determination of the company to get involved in making Beardstown a better place in which to work and live.

The plant here is the only one the company ever has built from the ground up and it is considered a model of efficiency in the meat-packing business. Right now 440 employees are working full time and the OM personnel office is advertising for more applicants for additional openings.

The 3,000 hog kill per day has been reached and surpassed at the plant and Beardstown and surrounding area continue to feel the impact in the economy.

John Lang, former employee of the Mallard Inn and a Rushville golf champ, who took a job with Illinois Bell Telephone company here several months ago, then transferred to Quincy, is being sent to school for a 6-week course to fit him for a promotion in the Quincy office setup.

His wife, the former Hazel Skiles and their daughter, Lori, will live in Beardstown while Mr. Lang schools in Springfield.

Fred Nieman, retired Burlington worker, his wife, Matti and their poddle, Feecee will fly to California for the Christmas season with their daughter, Dorothy and her family. The Fred Nieman's will be making their first flight and Matti says she will give Feecee a tranquilizer and take a couple herself.

Beardstown Township Supervisor A. C. Todd Schuetter has just been released from St. John's hospital in Springfield and is again on the job in the township offices.

Mrs. Georgia Howey Musch had an exciting experience last week in Springfield doing a little research on her family tree. She visited the Archives Building and the Centennial Building in her research activities and was given courteous aid by all employees in her examination of files of newspapers, etc.

These files included the microfilm records of Illinoisian-Stars from "way back."

Mrs. Musch reports finding evidence that one of her ancestors helped to found the Old Fellows lodge in a small Illinois community back in 1872.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hobrock have recently replaced their old car and their late beloved dog called George. The car replacement is a Cadillac, and the dog replacement is a cute black poddle.

Russell Monroe Lee, 301 W. Third street, Beardstown, has retired from his job at the L. K. Vredenburg Lumber company. He joined the local firm in August of 1951 and has been custodian there 15 years. He previously worked for many years as foreman of the cooperative shop operated by Schultz Baujan and company.

Lee continues to operate his own business at his home where he repairs venetian blinds.

Hardin Farmer Bids For State Representative

Jerry Corbett of Hardin, Ill., businessman and farmer of Calhoun County, will seek the Democratic nomination for State Representative in the 50th District, which is composed of Adams, Calhoun, Pike, Scott, Greene, Jersey and Morgan counties.

Corbett announced this week his decision to run for state representative after he had received much encouragement from all sections of the district.

He is widely known in the district and throughout the state because of membership on the State Highway Planning and Study Commission for the past two years; the Highway Safety Committee and the Export Advisory Board.

Jerry Corbett

Gov. Otto Kerner recently appointed him to the important Commission to Study Local Governmental Districts.

Besides serving on the various state commissions, he has represented Calhoun county as Democratic chairman for the past seven years.

His business affiliations include being president of Corbett Ford and Corbett Farms of Hardin; president of Duffer-Corbett Chevrolet-Buick-Olds of Hermann, Mo., and co-owner of the J. J. Corbett Ins. and Real Estate Co. of Hardin.

He is a member of the Illinois Auto Dealer Association, and member of the National Auto Dealer Association.

Mr. Corbett is presently serving on the Executive Board of Citizens for Development of Calhoun County and is chairman of the Brussels, Ill. Bridge Committee.

He is a former owner of the Western Auto Store in Hardin, the Nationwide Grocery and International Harvester Farm Equipment Dealership of Hardin.

Corbett is a veteran of World War II, having enlisted in the army in 1942 as a private and being discharged in 1946 as a First Lieutenant, after serving 33 months in India.

His fraternal and civic affiliations include membership in the American Legion, VFW, National Farmers Organization, Farm Bureau, National Farmers Union, the Feeders Association, and the Eagles.

Corbett, 50 years of age, was born and raised in Hardin, Illinois. His wife is the former Joan Duffer of Hermann, Missouri. The Corbets have two children, a daughter, Kelly Ann, and a son, Duff.

He was educated in the Hardin schools, Routt High School and St. Louis University.

AWARD MRS. MATTIE BLUE BETHEL CHURCH QUILT

Mrs. Mattie Blue of 469 South Clay avenue was the recipient of the hand-made quilt awarded by the Helping Hand club of Bethel AME church recently. The project realized a good sum for the club. The quilt was donated by a friend of the church.

Tree Of Lights Group Prepare For Opening

Volunteers helping with the Salvation Army Tree of Lights campaign have considerable preparation already underway for the scheduled opening Friday of the ten-day campaign.

The kettles will be on the streets through Saturday, Dec. 23, attended by volunteers from 14 labor, civic and service organizations, urging passersby to share with their needy neighbors through the kettle.

A committee of volunteers from the Jacksonville Lions Club will put the tree into place at the southeast corner of the public square this afternoon.

Representatives from the 14 cooperating organizations will be busy calling on area residents who regularly support the annual fund drive in advance of the opening.

This year's goal of $5,000 will help make Christmas a significant, inspiring occasion for the community's needy according to John B. Martin and Harold Parlier, co-chairmen for this year's fund-raising effort.

"This year's goal is the same as a amount raised last year and should provide adequate funds with which to serve a bountiful Christmas dinner for the 400 needy families," Martin said.

Road Reports Regular Service During Winter

Reports on road conditions throughout Illinois will be broadcast on WLDS and WLDS-FM several times daily during the winter months. The information will be provided as a public service through the cooperation of the Illinois State Police.

WLDS AM-FM Manager Gerry Cassens said that the station instituted the road reports because many motorists need this information when driving conditions are less than normal. Reports on road conditions in the Jacksonville area supplied by the Jacksonville City Police Department and the Morgan County Sheriff's office will also be broadcast.

Road reports on highway conditions are received on the 24-hour ESSA weather wire at the WLDS studios at 5:30 a.m., 11:30 a.m., and 5:30 p.m. Weather radar reports and up to the minute reports on weather conditions are also received on teletype throughout the day and broadcast immediately.

Information on the Environmental Science Services Administration weather wire is supplied by weather bureaus and other sources in a five-state area. The expense of the service is shared by WLDS AM and FM in your home. Very large selection and the Jacksonville Journal and Courier.
